Democrat Race Is Wide Open

Convention Hears Stevenson Plead 'Put Program Above Personalities'

Compiled from C.P., U.P. Dispatches

CHICAGO, July 21—Democrats today plunged into their 31st national convention here to pick a presidential candidate with scarcely anyone prepared to make even a guess as to the ultimate choice.

While the party girded itself to hold on to its 20-year tenure of the White House, the convention in its opening day heard:

1. Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson resist efforts to draft him for the presidential nomination by telling them that the party's program is more important than its candidate;

2. Estes Kefauver, crime-busting Senator from Tennessee declare he was sure of the nomination and had his campaign and administration plans well in hand. The 38-year-old aspirant is leading the numerous candidates in the number of state delegations pledged to vote for him, but there are many observers who say he cannot win;

3. Seventeen avowed candidates claim a total of 725 pledges among the 1,230 full votes on the convention floor. A candidate needs 616 to win. There are at least 500 unpledged votes and it is reported President Truman could swing 400 of them;

4. Best guessing seems to be that 74-year-old Alben Barkley of Kentucky, vice-president and popular man with all groups, who wants to be president, has a good chance of winning the nomination;

5. Others prominently mentioned include Averell Harriman, believed to have Truman's backing; Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma;

6. Oddity of the convention to date was the activity about the convention hotel Sunday when a demonstrajion of placard carriers booming General Douglas MacArthur, who made the keynote address at the Republican convention;

6. The question of whether Truman would agree to run again in the event of a deadlocked convention was still being discussed. George Allen, a close friend of the President's, said he believes Truman would let the Democrats nominate him for another term if the party's convention should become a "real deadlock."

HOT OPENING

As the convention opened things got so hot that party leaders were reported to have hastily changed the opening session program to obtain a cooling-off period. They postponed until tonight or Tuesday a showdown on the basic issue which threatens to split the party wide open. The issue is called Civil Rights.

"Who leads us is less important than what leads us," Stevenson told the convention in formally welcoming the delegates in behalf of the State of Illinois. "A man doesn't save a century or a civilization, but a militant party wedded to a principle can."

The governor's speech gave no encouragement to the party leaders who want him for a standard-bearer. But Stevenson supporters, including Illinois National Committeeman Jacob M. Arvey, insisted that his "no" really meant "maybe."

THOMAS J. GAVIN

GOOD BLUFFER?

Gavin Keeps Truman Ace Deep Secret

CHICAGO, July 21 (UP)—Thomas J. Gavin carries "the word" lightly on his broad Irish shoulders.

He is President Truman's alternate delegate to the Democratic national convention. When Gavin casts his vote on the first ballot, probably Thursday, the country will know Mr. Truman's choice for the Democratic nomination for President.

Gavin held a press conference Sunday. But he withheld "the word" he says he got from the White House on a recent trip to Washington.

Some Democratic politicos here hinted he may not have got it at all. They suggested he won't learn Mr. Truman's choice until just before the voting starts.

If so, Gavin is a good bluffer.

"I have received my instructions," he said. "I will make my choice known on the floor."

Gavin, a Kansas City ward politician, knows his fame will be short-lived. He knows that once he releases "the word" photographers will stop taking his picture and reporters will stop asking him questions.

"I know how hot I am now and how cold I will be after I cast that ballot," he said.

Other members of the 34-vote Missouri delegation look for Gavin to turn loose his secret during the first ballot just before the clerk reaches Missouri on the roll call. They expect him to pass "the word" to Gov. Forrest Smith, the delegation chairman. They figure the delegation will vote solid for Mr. Truman's choice.

But if it doesn't, some one is sure to demand that the delegation be polled so that Gavin's individual vote will be recorded.

Gavin, 54, is five-feet-eight and weighs 190 pounds. He is a brewer and insurance broker.

During his first 24 hours in Chicago Gavin was more sought after, photographed and followed around than any of the many candidates.

Vote Recount For Saanich Opened Today

A recount of ballots cast in Saanich riding in the provincial election is being conducted behind closed doors at the Court House here.

The recount, being carried out in front of County Court Judge L. A. Hanna, was started today and is expected to take "several days," officials said.

A counting crew of about six is working. Candidates Arthur Ash, Liberal, and Frank Snowsell, C.C.F., are present.

The recount was requested by Mr. Ash who was defeated by Mr. Snowsell by 168 votes.

It is one of four recounts of votes cast in the June 12 election.

Social Credit retained the interior riding of Similkameen in a recount last week, while new counts are due later this week for two Vancouver seats. In Vancouver-Burrard, Social Credit edged the C.C.F. by a slim margin, while in Vancouver-Point Grey, a third-place Liberal asked for a recount in a seat won by a Progressive Conservative.

Canadian Wrestler Second Round Winner

Toronto Argonaut Eight Get Dead Heat With Swedish Crew in Rowing Prelims

HELSINKI, July 21 (CP)—Featherweight Armand Bernard of Montreal scored again today in the Olympic wrestling competition, pinning Marco Giron of Guatemala in two minutes, 30 seconds.

It was Bernard's second victory through a fall in as many days. Sunday he pinned Ignacio Lugo of Venezuela.

He is the only undefeated Canadian among the wrestlers. Earlier today Ardien Poliquin of Montreal was quickly pinned in 30 seconds by Ferdinand Schmitz of Germany.

See Olympics story, summaries, Pages 8 and 11.

In the six-meter class yachting, Canada placed fourth, behind Switzerland, Sweden and Argentina.

In today's all-round splurge of speed and records, Canada didn't fare well.

Three girls were eliminated from the women's 100-metre sprint and two West Coast runners disappeared in the 800-metre semifinals.

Eleanor McKenzie of Vancouver got past the preliminary round in the 100-metre dash, where she placed second but was eliminated in the second-round heat by placing fifth.

Rosella Thorne of Montreal, and Luella Law of Vancouver, were eliminated in the early round.

Jack Hutchins of Vancouver was fourth in a semifinal heat in the 800-metre run but fourth wasn't good enough. Only three qualified in each heat. Hutchins was a heat winner Sunday.

Bill Parnell of North Vancouver was sixth in another heat.

In rowing competition, a dead heat was declared today in the eight-oared race between Toronto Argonauts and a Swedish crew and a re-row ordered for Tuesday.

The Canadian and Swedish crews were battling it out for survival in the rowing competition, rowing in the repechage—second chance heat.

Two other Canadian crews suffered elimination today. Hamilton Leanders' four-oared crew, without coxswain, finished third behind Poland and Hungary. The Winnipeg double-sculls pair of Bob Williams and Derek Riley placed fourth in a repechage heat won by Belgium.

Fred Hayward of St. John's, Nfld., Canada's only representative in the gruelling 50 kilometre walk, was not among the six finishers.

PREMIER REPORTS

B.C. Has $6,000,000 'Cushion'

The provincial treasury has $6,104,422 in a special suspense account which can be used as a cushion by the provincial government if it decided to withdraw from the federal-provincial tax rental agreement.

Premier Byron Johnson made the announcement today in another financial report, the third he has made since his government was defeated. Recently, he announced a $3,000,000 surplus in the hospital insurance plan, and a $15,000,000 reduction in the province's net debt.

Under the previous tax rental agreement there was a "hold-back" $5,070,609 payment which was credited to the suspense account to act as a financial buffer.

This sum was taken into account during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1952, and in its place has been substituted the final payment of $5,844,573 under the old agreement.

The sum of $259,849, penalties on arrears of taxes, also has been added to the suspense account.

Conciliation Board Backs Trail Raise

Ten-cent-an-hour wage increases have been recommended by a conciliation board to workers at Trail's Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., the Labor Relations Board announced today.

The award, which is unanimous, is retroactive to June 1. About 6,000 workers are affected.

Board members were J. N. Finlayson, chairman; E. Benson, company nominee; and Harvey Murphy, nominee for Trial and District Smelter Workers' Union, Local 480, and Kimberley Mine and Mill Workers' Union, Local 651.

Under the new agreement, union activity will not be considered ground for discharge.

Tradesmen now on the $1.74 per hour rate will receive an extra four cents an hour.

SUDBURY, Ont., July 21 (BUP) — After months of hopeless dealings with Communist truce negotiators, Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy headed for the French River resort district of northern Ontario today where he hoped for better luck dealing with fish and game.

Being Towed

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP).—The Norwegian freighter Black Gull, a smoldering ghost of a fire on the high seas, moved slowly under tow today toward New York and possible salvage.

A big ocean-going salvage tug managed to secure a line to the freighter's anchor chain Sunday at a point off the eastern tip of Long Island, 130 miles from here.

Lucky Step Saved Her Life

Sharon Squire, three, escaped drowning in murky waters of Gorge Saturday night because her rescuer, Alfred Pedneault, 2839 Austin, happened to kick youngster's arm while searching for her in water. Sharon is recovering at St. Joseph's Hospital today under watchful eye of Nurse Peggy Woodhouse. Child's body was under surface of water when Pedneault jumped in after he was attracted by screams. Little girl fell from float on which she, her brother, Kenneth, five, and small friend were playing. Pedneault and other passers-by applied artificial respiration until arrival of Saanich Fire Department resuscitator crew under Lieut. Hector McNeill. Sharon was taken to hospital by firemen. It was 18 minutes before the little girl began breathing properly after she was pulled from the water. (Times Photo.)

Strike Picture In B.C. Darkens

6,000 Fishermen Idle as Operators' Offer Rejected; I.W.A.-Sloan Meet

British Columbia set itself today to withstand another week of continuing major strikes. And indications seem to be that the general situation has yet to get worse before it gets better.

Forest, mill and construction industries have been tied up for more than a month. Today it appeared likely the salmon fishing industry would be next in line to be hit.

Gill-net and seine fishing vessels already have been ordered to do no fishing until union executive officers decide the next move.

6,000 IDLE

The no-fish order went out Sunday night. It caused about 6,000 net fishermen to tie up their boats. The order was given after a week-end vote had been conducted by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union on a last-minute offer by cannery operators to pay half a cent a pound more for pink salmon.

Union fishermen and Indians belonging to the Native Brotherhood of B.C. participated in the ballot and voted to reject the cannery terms.

The fishermen have demanded a cent a pound more for sockeye salmon, half a cent a pound more for pinks and last year's prices for cohoe and chums.

The cannery operators had proposed price reductions for all varieties except Sockeye.

Union officials point out the present situation is a tie-up, rather than a strike. They said they would announce whether it would develop into a strike later today or Tuesday.

Victoria fishermen are not directly affected for the moment since most boats operating out of here are trollers and the tie-up concerns net vessels only.

Meantime, the main labor spotlight continues to focus on the closed doors behind which Chief Justice Gordon Sloan sits with representatives of the I.W.A. and coast lumber operators.

This is the 38th day of the lumber workers' strike and settlement in the near future appears to depend almost entirely on the success of the chief justice in his role of mediator.

Mediation sessions were being held today in Vancouver.

PICKETS ON HAND

At Nanaimo, I.W.A. pickets were again posted on the assembly wharf this morning but there was no trouble.

The I.W.A. had close to 100 members picketing the wharf last week to prevent loading of a ship even though an injunction had been issued restraining them from such activity.

There were no pickets at the wharf Sunday but today six were counted.

Sheriff W. B. McKenzie said he was watching the wharf but said he expected no incidents. Meanwhile, the Shipping Federation of Nanaimo has issued a statement charging the strikers with breaking an agreement with longshoremen and shipping companies.

The federation maintains agreement was reached in Vancouver May 29, that all lumber assigned prior to the strike and all lumber of adjacent shore storage area would be considered fair cargo.

Unions officials from Vancouver were expected in Nanaimo sometime today to hear the shipping federation's arguments and to render a decision.

The I.W.A. strike, which affects 32,000 men, is regarded as one of most concern. It is generally felt it must be settled before the construction industry can iron out its labor troubles.

Doctors, Nurses Flown to Wrecked Mountain Town

LOS ANGELES, July 21 (AP)—A violent earthquake, striking before dawn in the sparsely-settled mountains north of here, killed at least 10 persons today and left a mounting toll of damage and injuries.

As the first reports of eyewitnesses filtered out of the little town of Tehachapi, they painted a picture of a shattered business district, brick-littered streets and a wrecked hotel.

Doctors and nurses were flown in when ambulances met slide-blocked roads.

Amateur radio operators heard by radio station KTRB in Modesto reported the earth rocked convulsively, debris tumbling into the main street in thundering crashes.

Children and their parents rushed into the streets, crouched, stunned by the giant shaking. A large water tank crashed, flooding the area.

Another amateur quoted Carl Turner of the Kern County sheriff's aero detail, who flew in Red Cross workers, as reporting two-thirds of the city's buildings collapsed, with one house caved in and a family probably trapped.

PASADENA, Calif., July 21 (AP).—There is a chance of another big earthquake within 36 hours in the general area of today's, a top-ranking seismologist said today.

Tehachapi, with a population of about 3,000 is on U.S. 466 between Bakersfield and Mojave, a little mountain town 4,000 feet high, many of whose residents work at the big Monolith Portland Cement plant nearby.

It also is the site of the state women's prison, which was reported so hard hit that most of its cluster of two-storey buildings are unusable.

A call went out for tents in which to house the 327 inmates, including all of California's women convicted of felonies. The prisoners were reported panic-stricken but unhurt.

Sheriff's Capt. F. D. Jones said he understood most of the dead were in an old brick hotel.

The town's residential district was damaged, but no deaths were reported there.

COMPARABLE TO 1946 QUAKE HERE

The California earthquake was registered on the seismograph at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Saanich, at 4.53 a.m., an observatory official reported.

The 'quake was described as comparable in intensity to an earthquake which shook Vancouver Island in 1946 and caused damage to homes.

Railroad Tunnels Caved in

Cave-ins were reported in at least two tunnels in the area, used jointly by the Sante Fe and Southern Pacific Railroads, and all travel was blocked.

The main-traveled route between here and Bakersfield, the Ridge Route U.S. 99, was blocked by a slide near Gorman.

A highway patrolman said "it seems like the top of a mountain slid off," burying the busy, four-lane freeway route under 25 feet of dirt at one point.

Elsewhere in the isolated Tehachapi Mountains, which separate coastal southern California from the San Joaquin Valley, there were growing reports of loss and injuries.

At least 10 persons were in hospital at Mojave, 20 miles east of Tehachapi.

The strongest quake in southern California in nearly a half century, the thinly-populated area in which it hit kept the death toll from being much higher.

Its force was felt, mostly in a rolling motion, from San Francisco on the north to the Mexican border on the south, and eastward into Nevada.

As dawn came, clouds of dust could be seen rising back in the mountains, indicating landslides deep in the canyons.

Bakersfield itself, a city of 35,000, was hard hit. A refinery was afire, the downtown business district was littered with rubble.

Plate-glass windows were splintered and an explosion blew out the walls of an automobile agency.

Dozens were treated for shock and minor cuts and bruises at Kern County General Hospital.

Seismologists at California Institute of Technology put the quake's centre on a branch of the famed San Andreas Fault, which cuts through the mountains near Gorman, and fixed its distance at 70 miles north of here.

Its strength in this century is topped only by the San Francisco quake in 1906.

But in terms of damage and loss of life, the Long Beach quake of 1933 was far worse.

It killed more than 100 and caused $40,000,000 damage.

And the 1925 Santa Barbara quake killed 11 and caused a $10,000,000 loss.

Farouk Meets Crisis Again

ALEXANDRIA Egypt, July 21 (AP).—King Farouk today was wrestling with Egypt's fourth cabinet crisis in five months following resignation Sunday of Premier Hussein Sirry Pasha.

The chief of the royal cabinet, Hafez Afifi Pasha, told reporters Sunday that the King had refused to accept the premier's resignation and still was seeking a solution to the government crisis. The Royal spokesman added, however, that Sirry Pasha insisted on quitting.

STEELWORKERS REMAIN FIRM

PITTSBURGH, July 21 (AP)—Top command of the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) voted unanimously today to continue the crippling steel strike until the industry agrees to a union shop—compulsory union membership for all employees.

Deaths Mark Tehran Violence As Qavam Resigns as Premier

TEHRAN, July 21 (AP)—Premier Ahmed Qavam resigned tonight after violent hours-long rioting in Tehran and other cities subsided. He gave up after two days, his attempt to form a government pledged to solving Iran's oil deadlock.

Before Qavam gave up, near-revolutionary violence flared, with Communists strengthening Nationalist mobs. Government forces, with gun shots, tear gas and bayonets fought to keep control.

At least three persons and perhaps more, were killed when government forces fired into a crowd of 2,000 trying to storm the parliament buildings.

"Death to Qavam," the mobs shouted wildly, venting their fury at the new premier's declaration that a settlement of Iran's long and crippling oil dispute with Britain would be a chief aim of his regime and that Nationalist violence would not stop him.

Today's demonstrators were supporters of the former premier, Nationalist leader Mohammed Mossadegh, but many members of the outlawed Communist Tudeh Party swelled the crowds.

The ultra-nationalist Pan-Iran Party, spearhead of a drive to force Mossadegh back into power, has threatened Qavam with assassination.

Witnesses to the firing in the parliament square said police and soldiers opened up with revolvers and automatic rifles as some demonstrators attempted to climb the gates and walls.

One reporter said at least 12 persons fell to the ground after the first volley of shots.

In the city's main square a crowd of 3,000 swarmed over an army tank and surged on toward other waiting soldiers.

The soldiers and demonstrators began embracing and kissing when an earlier false report spread that Quavan had resigned.

Police reported crowds in some sections of the city dragged corpses through the street to arouse other followers.

Anti-Mossadegh newspapers were reported under attack.

Only a few hours before the parliament incident, pro-Mossadegh deputies broadcast a radio appeal to their supporters to quit demonstrating and avoid clashes with the soldiers and police. Apparently they feared the Communists might take control of the demonstrations in order to create public panic.

IRAN PRINCE SAID WOUNDED

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports reached British government officials today that rioting mobs in Tehran had seriously wounded Prince Ali Reza, brother of Iran's Shah.

The reports said that as the Prince, 29, appeared near Parliament, he was set upon by rioters.

Government officials said the reports failed to say whether the Prince was shot, bayonetted or manhandled.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

They're criticizing my town and I can't help feeling hurt, as if they were talking about my girl. They're people who like Victoria, too. That's why they've come to live here in the last few years.

They like the location, the scenery, the climate. They're impressed by the courtesy of the people. They admire the gardens. They enjoy the tempo of life. And they seem to have one desire in common—if only they could make friends here.

Stott

"What's the matter with people in Victoria? Or what's the matter with us?" they ask.

"Feel my arm," says one. "See? It's flesh and bone, with sinews and blood in it. I'm people. I love this place. It's almost two years since I came here from the prairies. And in two years I haven't made a friend.

"Oh sure, I've met folks, lots of them. They're courteous. They'll go out of their way to give you directions to places. They'll answer your queries politely. They'll even ask you over to see their gardens and be glad when you walk along the paths and admire the flowers and shrubs.

"Out at our place we've got a bit of a garden. It isn't up to a lot of the others, but we like it. And our neighbors are polite about it, too. They'll come and see the flowers.

Turn on the Courtesy

"That's about as far as they'll go. Courtesy, sure, courtesy. But it's getting to be a little bit like tourist publicity stuff.

"What do you have to do before they ask you in to split a beer or have a cup of tea?

"Mind you, they never bother you. They leave you alone. And it can be pretty lonely at times. You expect that when you first come to a new city. But how long does it last here?

"Look, I'm not calling Victoria people snobbish. It's not that. They're just disinterested.

"Back on the prairies we had lots of friends—good friends—friends you could drop in on without an invitation, people you could talk things over with.

"Is it that you have to be born in this town before you can reach that position with folks? Don't you like people?

"If anybody here were to unbutton his coat, open his vest and take me to his heart—boy, that'd be the day."

You don't get mad at the guy for speaking like that. He's not being nasty with his beef. He's just explaining his position and letting you in on a problem that puzzles him and leaves him wondering.

You begin to wonder yourself. You see his point. You're courteous to newcomers, or you try to be. You welcome them with a sort of civic pride to Victoria, hope they'll enjoy living here. Then you begin to ask yourself what you're doing to see that they do enjoy the city, not just as tourists, but as settlers.

Uncomfortable Self-Analysis

You ease away from that bit of self-analysis because it makes you a little uncomfortable. You say to yourself, well, doggone, what time have you got that you could give them? How would you get your chores done? When would you be able to fix up the cupboards in the kitchen, do a little painting, or maybe a little reading

It occurs to you that you have quite a few friends as it is to whom you haven't given the time friendship should give. You hate to think that you're drying up inside, that ossification has set in on your heart, that you're growing selfish and disinterested in people you meet.

You begin to say, quite honestly, that you don't know how to fit more friends into the group of your intimates.

Then you think of a sentimental moving picture you once saw. It told the story of an unfortunate and desperately poor family in Brooklyn that, in all its distress and poverty, still managed to keep a coffee pot on the stove and an extra mug handy for anyone who dropped in.

You make a sort of mental note to have that kind of coffee pot. And chances are you'll make the same kind of mental note the next time some new settler asks you: "What's the matter with people in Victoria? Or what's the matter with us?"

Continues Vigil

A workman tries to make friends with a mysterious collie dog who has kept a 17-day vigil at a water-filled abandoned mine shaft near Joplin, Mo. The dog has resisted all efforts to move him and an unexplained attempt to poison him has spurred an investigation of the shaft. Residents of the area have been caring for the dog during his "watch." 'HER HEART WOULD BRAKE'

Little Cripple's Brother Pleads for Stolen Bike

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 21 (AP)—A 15-year-old boy wrote a story today about "the bicycle thief."

"I am just a poor boy," said Newt Jones of nearby Phenix City, Ala., in a letter to the Columbus Ledger-Inquirer. "I work to go to school. Before school was out I would go to school in the morning and deliver groceries in the afternoon.

"I managed," he continued, "to buy me a bicycle with some help from my father. You see there are seven in our family and I can't expect too much help.

"I have a little sister nine years old. She has never walked. She does not have a wheelchair so you see we have to carry her in our arms.

"On Sundays I always ride her around on my wheel and the only time she gets to go to the show (witch she is crazy about) is when I carry her on my bicycle.

"Well July 4th I carried her to the theatre and after the show we came out to go home and some one had stolen my wheel. I thought her heart would brake for she knows she won't get to go as much as she did. I hope that the one who got that wheel reads this and always remember that they did not steel a bicycle but the onliest way a little cripple girl had to go about in the city."

A few hours after the letter was published, two heavy hearts were lightened by donations of a bike to Newt and a wheelchair to his sister. There were also other donations of money and offers of other bicycles.

Ontario Highway Toll Includes 381 Lives

TORONTO, July 21 (BUP).—Some 381 persons, 68 of them children, died on Ontario highways during the first six months of this year, the department of highways announced today.

The accident toll was three higher than that for the same period last year. June was the worst month, when 78 died.

No Mother-in-Law Trouble for Them

LONDON, July 21 (UP).—Dr. Richard Waterman, an Evanston, Ill., sociologist, said today that aborigines in Arnhem Land never have arguments with their mothers-in-law.

Native custom forbids a husband to speak to his mother-in-law and vice versa.

"Like the natives, I now believe the system has a tremendous advantage over white civilization," Waterman said.

BESTED IN BLAZING GUNFIGHT

Police Kill Bank Bandit Suspect

BY WILF CHISLETT

VIVIAN, Man., July 21 (CP).—R.C.M.P. constables shot one man to death and wounded another Sunday in a blazing gunfight with two suspected bank robbers near here.

Constable John Frederick Friend was shot in the cheek by a blast from a .45 pistol. He was reported in good condition in hospital at Winnipeg, 30 miles west of this farm community of 10 families.

John R. Zahara, 42 of Penticton, B.C., wanted in Vancouver for attempted murder, died under a hail of police bullets.

His companion, 33-year-old Alexander Zapoplac of Winnipeg, was shot in the foot. He is under police guard in hospital at Winnipeg.

The R.C.M.P., searching for two bandits who robbed a suburban Winnipeg branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada of $2,000 Friday, was called to Vivian when residents became suspicious of two armed men prowling in the woods.

Police were greeted by shots when they caught up with the men off a side road about 1½ miles west of here. The fire was returned when the men refused to surrender.

Angus McNeill, 72-year-old war veteran, was the only bystander. He was reading the paper when police entered his home and asked if he had seen the two men. Seconds later he heard shots across the road, about 60 yards away.

He watched the fight from a safe distance and later gave a drink to the wounded men. The dead man lay nearby, his shirt torn to shreds by police bullets.

Strips from a sheet were used by McNeill to bandage the wounded men.

The hunt for Zahara and Zakopiac started after Mrs. Fred Anderson, 38, noticed two armed men sitting on the road near her farm home. That was Friday night.

Sunday morning her father, Fred Palmer, 65-year-old pump house man at the Canadian National Railways station here, saw the same men steal water. He told telegrapher Emile Deconinck who tipped off police by messaging Winnipeg.

The loot from the bank branch was recovered. Bandits rifled the $2,000 from the teller's cage after forcing employees, customers and the police chief to lie down on the floor.

FOR CIVIL DEFENSE

Nurses' Aide Training Class Will Start in September

Courses will start in September to train nurses' aides for local target area civil defense, L. C. Hatcher, area director, reports.

Training in hospitals will be included in the courses. Canadian Red Cross and St. John Ambulance organizations will take an active role in this type of training.

Mr. Hatcher said the graduates will be assigned to go to specific first aid stations and emergency hospitals should a danger alert be sounded on the air raid sirens.

Target is to get 200 persons to take this training. They will be asked to qualify in basic civil defense, first aid, home nursing and courses for graduation as nurses' aides.

Mr. Hatcher hopes this program will attract senior high school girl students. Co-operation of the provincial education department will be sought in this connection.

Mr. Hatcher said that the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association has authorized some of its members to take administrative posts in first aid stations.

First major schemes to test the civil defense program are likely to be held in "F" area, taking in Oak Bay and a portion of Saanich, it has been indicated.

Packinghouse Wage Dispute Under Way

TORONTO, July 21 (BUP)—Representatives of Canadian packinghouse workers met today to negotiate a new wage contract with the big three of the industry.

The series of conferences between the C.I.O. United Packinghouse Workers of America and Swift-Canadian, Burns & Co., and Canada Packers Ltd., was expected to last until Friday.

Present contracts expire Aug. 1.

The union planned bargaining on a country-wide basis to set up a uniform wage scale. Amount of the increase demanded was not known except that union officials said it was "substantial."

For French-Speaking Canadian Officers

This picture shows part of the parade square, old buildings and the new dormitory under construction (centre, rear), where Canada's third officer-training school will be located. The school will be called College Militaire Royal De St. Jean, and is located at St. Johns, Que., near Montreal.

College Militaire Near Montreal Becomes Third Officers' School

OTTAWA, July 21 (CP).—Canada's third officer-training school will be called College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, a French name for an institution designed primarily to meet the need for French-speaking officers in the three armed forces.

Announcement was made today of the name of the school that will be located at St. Johns, Que., near Montreal, on one of the most historic military sites in Canada and one which frustrated American invaders once called the key to the conquest of this country.

The school will join Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., and Royal Roads on Vancouver Island this September in the job of training young men to be officers for the forces. They are jointly called the Canadian services colleges.

Cadets will train at St. Johns near the remnants of buildings dating back to the rebellion of 1837 and of an old fort site dating back three centuries.

It now is possible for young men with junior matriculation to have their way paid through the services colleges by the government if they agree to stay in the forces three years after graduation. Men going into fighting-branch or executive commissions need only two years' training now. Men going into the technical branches need four.

U.N., Reds in Bitter Battle for Famed Hill

Allies Fail to Gain Crest Despite Heavy Barrage by Aircraft, Tanks

SEOUL, Korea, July 21 (AP)—United Nations infantry today drove Chinese Communists off the crest of Old Baldy on the Korean western front in the wake of a tremendous barrage by artillery, tanks and planes.

Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters in Tokyo said the bitterly-contested height west of Chorwon was captured. But front-line dispatches indicated the crest of the hill was a no-man's land with U.N. troops dug in below the crest.

A U.S. Eighth Army staff officer said the hill definitely was not secured.

Associated Press correspondent George McArthur at the front said the Chinese had not given up their bid for the vital hill they wrested from the Allies last Thursday. He said Chinese foot soldiers were observed sneaking back toward the hill in the afternoon despite intense Allied fire.

More than 50 U.N. planes raked the hill with flaming gasoline, rockets and machine-gun fire. U.N. tanks and artillery blanketed the hill with screeching shells.

Allied troops worked to within 100 yards of the top by dawn and then pulled back to their base.

Chinese casualties were reported heavy.

Communist artillery fire was heavy but did not equal that of the Allied guns. Red fire, however, knocked out two of the supporting U.N. tanks.

Both sides continued hurling artillery and mortar shells this afternoon.

BIG INCREASE

Total wages and salaries received by employees of Canada's 450 fruit and vegetable canneries have increased more than 60 times since 1900—to about $24,500,000 a year.

Mainland Pair Rescued After Boat Capsizes

VANCOUVER, July 21 (CP).—Clever handling of a small motorboat in a racing rip tide Sunday saved a veteran Vancouver sailor and his wife after their sailboat capsized in 15-foot waves in English Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Long spent 15 agonizing minutes clinging to their boat in the cold, swirling water before another Vancouver couple and two companions manoeuvred the motorboat to make the rescue.

Rescuers were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clandinin, Jerry Abramson and Velma Evans.

Mr. Long, who has been sailing for 14 years, told reporters that his 12-foot racing dinghy was heading from Kitsilano Beach to the North Shore when it was caught in the dangerous, racing tide.

The motorboat had to make two attempts to come alongside while Mr. Long clung to the boat with one hand and supported his wife with the other.

South America Leaves Douk Leader Cold

'Canada Is Best' Says Sorokin

KRESTOVA, B.C., July 21 (CP)—Sons of Freedom would not be wise to flee Canada for South America in the opinion of their new spiritual leader, Stephen Sorokin.

Sorokin was interviewed Sunday at the fanatics' Sons headquarters in this ramshackle village on the dry benchland near Nelson.

He has just returned from a five-month tour of South America in which he searched for land to which the Doukhobors could emigrate.

All he found were people who were "amazed that any group should want to leave Canada," he said.

"Canada is best, Canada is best," said Sorokin.

He revealed he had met Mennonites, Russians and other European colonies in South America who begged him to help them get to this country, which the Sons have said they want to leave.

The search for relocation from the arid Krestova district will continue, Sorokin said. Meanwhile the sect members must "improve their reputations so that they will be more acceptable to neighbors."

TRIPLE TIE

Three Share Motorboat, Gyro Prize

When three men win one prize there's a problem.

When the prize is last week's Gyros' hole-in-one contest inboard motorboat the situation becomes more complicated.

A. S. McKay, 410 Kingston Street; S. Tenning, 1409 Stanley Avenue, and C. E. Sluggett, 619 Trutch Street, all got holes-in-one in the final round Saturday.

They can toss for the prize, cut cards for it, or cut it into three pieces, if they like. But as far as the Gyros are concerned they will share equally in the cash value of the boat.

There were three holes-in-one in the qualifying round, too, and the marksmen get $20 apiece in prizes. They are: John Pickburn, 1007 Collinson Street; H. Smith, Cadboro Bay Road, and Lorne Campbell, 392 Blenkinsop Road.

W. D. Clarke, 2585 Cavendish Avenue, won the carnival grand prize, and has his choice of an electric refrigerator, an electric washing machine or a radio-phonograph combination.

Fire Hazard Reduced

The fire hazard in British Columbia is low and there are good prospects of it staying that way for several days, B.C. Forest Service officials said today.

Only seven new fires occurred in the province over the week-end. All were extinguished.

There are 33 fires burning and 151 firefighters employed.

In the Vancouver Forest District, which includes Vancouver Island, six new fires occurred over the week-end.

Only 29 men are employed fighting forest fires in the district, where there are 12 fires burning.

Three B.C. Miners Seriously Injured

KEREMEOS, B.C., July 21 (CP).—Three Copper Mountain miners are in poor condition in hospital here following a head-on collision on the highway between Keremeos and Hedley early Sunday.

R.C.M.P. would not release their names until next of kin had been notified.

Not seriously injured in the accident were Ivor Holden, Vancouver, his wife and his two children, Dale, 4, and Lee Susan, six.

The Holden family were on their way to Calgary to attend Mrs. Holden's parents' wedding anniversary.

The Holdens are in Penticton hospital.

The House Should Meet

FOR A MAN WHO EXPECTS TO BE Premier of British Columbia Mr. W. A. C. Bennett has extraordinary ideas about the constitution. He says he does not propose to call the legislature together until next year and meanwhile will institute his policies so far as possible by order-in-council. This would be to affront the constitution, the legislature and the people.

If and when Mr. Bennett comes to office he will have behind him a minority of the legislature and a very small minority of the people. In the first-choice vote, by which the people showed definitely what party they desired in office, the Social Credit Party received 26.6 per cent of the ballots. Only about a quarter of the people said they wanted a Social Credit government. Even when the alternative votes were counted Social Credit elected considerably less than half the members of the legislature. Few, if any governments in Canada, have ever entered office with so little public and legislative support.

Denying these obvious facts, Mr. Bennett says he and his prospective colleagues do not regard themselves as a minority government but "we look on ourselves as the duly elected government with full power to conduct the affairs of the province." This may turn out to be true if the legislature supports Mr. Bennett. It is not true now. Mr. Bennett cannot possibly know, before the legislature meets, whether it is willing to support him. Nor can the legislature know until it sees Mr. Bennett's policies. On one major policy, the abolition of universal, compulsory hospital insurance, the legislature is not likely to support Mr. Bennett and could defeat him on this issue if he pressed it.

Under these conditions the clear and immediate duty of the new government will be to call the legislature at the earliest possible moment and discover whether it can govern or not. Whether Mr. Bennett has one or two seats, more or less than the C.C.F., we think he is entitled to form a government since he is more likely than the C.C.F. to receive the legislature's support, but he is not entitled to carry on the government for long without testing its strength in the legislature.

Until it has won a vote of confidence Social Credit can be a government in name only and has no right to change any major public policy by order-in-council. No one expects a new government to meet the legislature a few days after taking office. It deserves a reasonable time to consider its affairs and prepare legislation. However, by early autumn at latest the legislature should meet and say whether the government-in-name is to be a government-in-fact. Otherwise the government will be usurping the powers which belong to the legislature and, through it, to the people. The constitution will be disregarded.

Mr. Bennett's reasoning seems to be based not only on a misunderstanding of the constitution but on a false premise. He says a Social Credit government will have been "duly elected" when, in fact, it will come to office by grace of the alternative vote, on a small minority of ballots, by the most extraordinary political accident in Canadian history.

Moreover, it will have come to office in defiance of the primary constitutional requirement that the voters must know, before an election, who is to lead the government if a certain party is elected. Mr. Bennett was not chosen by the people to head the government. He was chosen by a secret party caucus after the election.

By no stretch of the imagination has the Social Credit Party been "duly elected." It can call itself "duly elected" and entitled to govern only when it has established its control of the legislature. Meanwhile it must live in a constitutional vacuum with a right to conduct routine business but no moral right to institute any new policy whatever.

Mr. Bennett has had no experience in government and for this reason may be forgiven his misunderstanding of the constitution. He appears to be an able man and may make an able government leader. All British Columbians, except those blinded by partisanship, will hope that he will give good government and earn the support of the legislature by wise policies between now and another election, which cannot be far off. This he cannot hope to do if he disregards the strange origins of his government, the legislature, the constitution and the people.

The Senate Smells Trouble

HAVING FORCED THE HOUSE OF Commons to repeal last year's unconstitutional restrictions on margarine, the reviving Canadian Senate has taken a look at a much larger subject. Apparently far more than the Commons, it is interested in the taxpayer, the total cost of government and the prospect of a financial calamity not long hence.

The key fact in the report of the Senate finance committee is that about a third of the Canadian people's income now goes in taxes, to federal, provincial and municipal governments. On average, when a Canadian earns a dollar he must be prepared to hand over some 33 cents of it to the state.

This, as the committee says, "is certainly about the limit, or even beyond the limit of what governments can take with safety from the taxpayers."

Moreover, if we can find this money today, in the middle of an unexampled boom, when our pockets are full, what happens if economic conditions change? "We have no guarantee," the committee warns, "that so far as our economy is concerned we shall continue to live indefinitely in sunshine."

It is all very well, the committee adds, to imagine that if any large industry is injured by a changing economic climate (as the beef industry has been injured by the closing of the American market after the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease) the state can rush to its aid with subsidies. It can supply this aid only so long as the taxpayers are prepared to pay for it.

And if the state undertakes to support everybody in trouble then, says the Senate committee "we are on the slippery slope. If within the next few years we should have a 20 per cent decline in prices or lose 20 per cent of our foreign market, what happens to the edifice of expenditures, we have built up in the days of sunshine?"

Those are modest figures. Prices could easily drop 20 per cent and so could exports. Under such conditions our governments could not possibly carry their present load of expenditure simply because they could not collect enough money from a smaller total supply of real wealth.

Obviously taxes have reached or exceeded the practical limit, as the Senate committee says. Economists may prove on paper that more taxes can be paid and should be paid to support desirable public services. In practical politics this will not work. Short of total war the taxpayer will not pay more. In fact, he is so insistent on paying less that the present budget of the federal government undoubtedly will have to be cut down and presumably will be cut down before another national election. No government is likely to face the polls carrying the present tax rates like a political albatross around its neck.

During the period of dangerous inflation, which began to ease in Canada at the first of this year, high taxes were an essential economic weapon, among others, to hold down the public's excessive demand for goods. That weapon is no longer required, at least in its present force, when prices are falling. The national budget must now be concerned mainly not with economic but purely financial factors. It must be based on the ability and the willingness of the people to pay taxes.

The question is not whether expenditures must be held down in all wings of government but whether economies will be applied in the right place. The easy and dangerous way out of the problem is to slaughter military appropriations and the government will need high courage to resist that temptation. Sound economy in civilian spending will be much more difficult for politicians on the eve of an election when the public constantly demands larger spending and lower taxes.

Nevertheless, at some point, the facts must be faced. They should be faced in advance, when times are good, before we are compelled to face them under difficult economic and financial circumstances. As the Senate committee urges, we should use the days of sunshine to prepare for a rainy day. We are not likely to escape it forever.

Genuflection to the Dollar

COUNTESS ALEXANDER, WHO lived with Canadians for years and whose husband yielded readily and willingly to the processes of being a Canadian, says she honestly can't recall telling a reporter she thinks Canadians tend to bow the knee to the very wealthy.

"I don't think that and I wouldn't say that," she replied to questions raised by a London News Chronicle story. The metropolitan daily quoted Countess Alexander as follows:

"Well, you know all the talk about democracy over there—how we are all as good as each other. . . . I think the very repetition of it defeats its own ends. There is democracy over titles and names, but not so much over dollars.

"There, most definitely, I noticed a bending of the knee to the very wealthy."

Canadians will, in the main, accept her explanation that she does not believe these things and would not say them. People of this country are then left with the assumption that the alleged quotation was a misconstruction of Countess Alexander's words or the creation of the interviewer's imagination.

Whatever the source, the idea they convey might be considered by Canadians. Is there any justification at all for them? Do Canadians bow the knee to the very wealthy?

Obviously, in any country, there are social distinctions which owe their creation to certain origins. We, in Canada, pride ourselves on our status of equality. Jack is as good as his master, we say. Though the phrase is common enough, is there, perhaps, some justification to question its authenticity and our profession of faith in it?

There is no wish to attribute the reported criticism of Canadians to the gracious personage who occupied Rideau Hall for years. Yet the comment, even without an identified source, could be a fruitful source of self-analysis for Canadians. If we are as sure of our democratic spirit as we profess to be, what quality is it, or what combination of qualities, draws the attention and courtesies commonly accorded in this country to certain of its citizens?

We repudiate very quickly any suggestion of servility in Canadians, but are we above suspicion of genuflection to the dollar sign?

BOB RUARK SAYS:

How to Make A Bed of Pain

NEW YORK—The last time I was sick nigh unto death I blew a sizable chunk of hospitalization insurance by staying home to die in my own bed. This way I figured to die happy, instead of miserable. Actually, I got well at home. I think I might have kicked off from sheer discouragement in a hospital.

Ruark

The average hospital I have encumbered has always seemed to be more jail than hotel of hospitality, a place of glum and useless discipline, where they wake you in the middle of the night for laughs and attempt to poison you with food unfit for goat consumption. These were views I have been afraid to utter until now, when I got a brave medical doctor to back me up.

WRITING for the Woman's Home Companion, Dr. Benjamin F. Miller of Boston's Peter Bent Hospital is rougher on the asylums of cure than I ever intended to be. He even quotes another doctor as referring to the average hospital as a "blend between a penitentiary and a third-class hotel."

Rest and nutrition are necessary to the recovery of patients, but I never spent any time in any hospital where they didn't wrestle you out of the hay at dawn's crack to take your temperature, even if you were suffering a broken arm, and I never had a meal that wouldn't have affronted the early Oliver Twist. This seems to be Dr. Miller's beef, too, and he says it's all unnecessary.

I HAVE never had the courage to enter a hospital diet kitchen, even for research, but the staff runs roughly as follows: One chef is in charge of burning the meat. Another is in charge of congealing the gravy, with a small fan. An ambidextrous chef pours water in the coffee with one hand, and dumps tincture of hemlock in it with the other. A fourth chef pours grease on the eggs and then blows on them to be sure they're cold when the patient gets them. Another curls the ends of the toast, and still another mixes applesauce with spinach or carrots.

The time schedule for feeding the patient is to serve him breakfast yesterday, lunch in the morning, and dinner in the afternoon. This allows him to starve, Dr. Miller says, for about 15 hours. No need to yell. Iron discipline maintains at all times.

I AM NOT drawing the long bow when I tell you that a newspaper friend of mine named Mac, out in Michigan, suffered three inner cleansings in one morning as a pre-operative precaution. Mac was in the hospital for a sore foot. The more drastic preparations were for a man with a slightly similar name who was to undergo serious surgery. Poor old Mac protested feebly, but they kept coming at him until he was too weak to fight back.

During the war in Bethesda Naval Hospital I spent three days with a fighter group suffering night blindness. I kept telling them all I had was a busted arm, but . . .

LORD knows the cost of hospitalization is heavy enough to warrant some civil rights for the inmates—and inmate is the word—but the old hangover persists that once you've passed the credit test at the admissions desk, you give up all rights and franchises as a human being. Sisters of mercy in starched frocks can be more abusive than disgruntled cops. When they get in a hassel with the doctor they have been known to vent their ill-temper on the patient.

But a cross nurse with sore feet isn't as unpleasant as the patronising one who, like mother, knows best, and who refers to you as "our patient" and uses "we" when she means you gotta take the nasty old medicine or subject yourself to some fresh indignity. Speak for yourself, Jane, and knock off this "we" stuff. I'm doing the suffering here, not you.

THE good doctor says that all this iron, inflexible discipline and lousy chow and early rising is considerable stuff and nonsense, and there's no reason hospitals can't be at least as comfortable and considerate as the average county jail. He says we need more women on the hospital boards, to make them homier and less houses of torture. I'm with him. Let us have the Martini with the evening meal, served at a decent hour, and the right to squawk when the room service is tardy.

Ottawa Looks At B.C. Results

Ottawa Citizen

PERHAPS the B.C. coalition of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives had lasted too long, weakening each organization.

The majority of voters were ready for a change and were not to be frightened by younger parties that seemed to be governing Alberta and Saskatchewan satisfactorily. Social Credit attracted most of those who would support neither the older parties nor the C.C.F. It was the chief beneficiary of C.C.F. alternative votes. It gained many who followed into its camp two prominent ex-Conservatives, Mrs. Tillie Rolston and Mr. W. A. C. Bennett.

The Social Credit platform was, indeed, far from radical. It endorsed monetary reform briefly, but promised no miracles. Somewhat vague and contradictory, it undertook to curb debt and cut governmental costs while spending more on social payments, pensions, text books, school grants and highways. It pledged a "review" of labor laws and tax problems, and offered encouragement to both co-operatives and private enterprise.

Premier Manning of Alberta appears to have a large audience in B.C. for his religious broadcasts. Social Credit candidates praised his government for its cheaper, voluntary hospital insurance scheme and for getting far more revenue from natural resources than does B.C. They placed the Bible on their platform, raised a cry for "good government," and made hay with particular success in the rural ridings, from Delta on the coast, into the southern interior and up to Peace River. Theirs was a phenomenal victory.

As Our Readers See It

LIFT UP THINE EYES

Victoria offers its citizens and visitors an unusual opportunity to become acquainted with the starry sky. Probably the proximity of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory accounts for the enthusiasm of the local amateur astronomers, for the director and staff of this institution willingly give of their time to enlighten the tyro.

In the confused welter of political ideologies and economical problems, it is possible to escape to the vast realm of the stars for a few evenings during the summer and to contemplate the wonders of our universe as unfolded by modern science under the guidance of eminent local and visiting astronomers.

In this year's program of "Summer Evenings with the Stars" the Victoria council of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada is to be heartily congratulated. For one lowly dollar they offer five inspiring Monday evenings starting July 28 at the Normal School, with outdoor observing following the lectures. Truly the best things in life are free. Well—Almost!

STILL MORE ABOUT SCOTT

Your correspondent of the 14th inst. is prompted to write an article under the caption: "More About Scott," owing to some derogatory statements made by me (apparently) re Scott's literary works.

As a writer of fiction Scott, in my opinion, is superb; but when he combines fiction with history he, like others, becomes (to use the very expressive slang of our country), a "flop."

A fictional writer can, and often does, create characters that are scientifically impossible.

Let me give you an example of what I mean: In "The Abbott," by Scott, we meet with a pair of identical twins: Catherine Seton and her brother. These are so exactly alike that, when the brother masquerades as a girl (as he often does in this story), Catherine's lover cannot tell them apart.

Science knows that identical twins are always of the same sex; either both males or both females and never of the opposite sex.

Perhaps your correspondent can now see what I mean when I say that history, taken from historical novels is never reliable.

POLITICIANS' AND OTHERS' PAY

A few years ago, a prominent jurist stated "there are laws for the rich and laws for the poor." Not being moderately rich, desperately poor or conversant with legal procedure will, undoubtedly, disqualify me as adjudicator of the rights and wrongs of this statement.

Every man, however, is entitled to his opinion. And when thinking of the grabbing propensities of our politicians in the matter of salaries and pensions, I naturally wonder if there are also laws for politicians and laws for voters, too. Other wage earners have to strike to obtain higher wages, but when politicians, with the audacity of old-time Caribbean buccaneers, take what they want, faith in our vaunted ideals of equality and justice is weakened. Can it be said they are not wage earners, that they belong to a very rare species of super intellects endowed with divine privileges; or that vocal chords and garrulity are more precious than brains and brawn.

Following these political examples, industrial workers are also on the grab for higher wages. Now can anyone, even by a desperate stretch of imagination, conceive the necessity of already overpaid workers, often misnamed tradesmen—men who saw boards and hammer nails, splash paint around, fall trees and other handyman jobs—demanding 35 to 50 cents an hour raise in wages together with other emoluments?

Ignoring the fact that many thousands of Canadians are living comfortably on less than the raise demanded, labor czars are taking advantage of this political defection and the unholy scramble for votes even though the economic structure and security of the nation is being undermined by strikes and unreasonable demands of more for less.

In the light of these brutal truths, further arguments as to the basic causes of inflation are unnecessary, futile. They know, everybody knows, that no government ever survived, no nation ever produced permanent prosperity by inflation. Yet it seems we cannot produce one statesman or party of patriots willing to set country before pelf and ego.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BUSES

There appeared in the Times recently a news item under the heading "Quiet." It says that in Salix, Ia., 12 children (obviously public school children) departed for free swimming lessons at Sioux City aboard a public school bus on which Roman Catholic children have been forbidden to ride.

This last sentence would make it appear that these children were forbidden to ride on that bus because they are Roman Catholics. Such a statement pours oil instead of water on the burning "R.C. separate versus public school" question. It is in reality a question of private schools versus public schools. The latter are open to all the citizens' children, irrespective of creed, color or country. It is not a question of Roman Catholicism versus Protestantism, for religion "enters not into the picture."

Anyone choosing a private school gets the advantages and disadvantages of such an institution, just as does he who chooses the public school system. Supposing that a bus had been chartered by a Methodist Church Sunday school for a picnic, it would not enter the mind, no, not even of a thrifty Presbyterian, to demand a free ride and a free picnic with the Methodists! He would be referred to his own kirk!

Super-Caution

Ottawa Citizen

The reconsideration of foreign policy he (Herbert Hoover) has advocated before the Republican National Convention in Chicago makes Mr. Taft look like a bold internationalist. But in these days Mr. Hoover is not likely to persuade any sizeable section of his party to let the rest of the world go hang. The thesis expounded by Mr. Hoover during the past two years is that the United States should build up its own sea and air defences. Britain and Japan might be its frontiers. But Asia and Europe would be quicksand for American troops.

New Era Dawns In U.S. Politics

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WHAT makes the election so extraordinarily interesting is, it seems to me, that it is the turning point from one political generation to another. We are at the end of the era which began in 1932. The men of that period are retiring, and the primary question in both parties now is who is to succeed them.

Lippmann

Neither party has a simple and obvious answer to this question.

The Republicans have decided, but by a very close vote, for the Republican governors as against the old bureaucracy of the party in the national committee and in the southern states. Gen. Eisenhower's victory was a decision to give up trying to undo and reverse the history of the past 20 years. It is a mandate to him to reorganize the Republican party for the times we live in, and to transform it from a mere opposition into a party which is once again fit and able to govern.

The effectiveness of the Eisenhower campaign will almost certainly depend on how convincing is the evidence he gives that he is recruiting the new men and is reorganizing the party machinery and is reconstrutcing the party's position—all in preparation for the serious business of taking over the government.

REALISM

The voters who probably hold the balance of power are sure to discount heavily partisan denunciations and partisan promises. They will want first of all to see whether there is the making of an administration which—in the sense that it is competent and that it knows the facts of life—is fit to govern. They will not take kindly to any treatment which under-estimates their intelligence and their knowledge of the realities.

The Democrats will, of course, make much of Eisenhower's political inexperience. But they also are at a turning point of the generation, and they are entering the campaign with the same fundamental problem: can they produce an effective succession? They have to choose new men to exercise the power which was organized by Roosevelt and inherited from him by Truman.

The succession from Truman is not an easy one to arrange. For Truman now dominates and at the same time divides the party which Roosevelt formed. A straight Truman man, like Mr. Harriman, could not count, therefore, on taking over more than a part—the northern and urban part—of the Roosevelt political estate.

Gov. Stevenson's position is unique in that he alone is not certain to alienate any of the main factions of the party. He alone is acceptable to all of them. Nevertheless, it is not a simple thing to make him the successor of Truman. It is not simple because he needs all of Truman's political assets but he cannot afford to take over Truman's liabilities.

For while a Democrat, particularly Stevenson, might win on the Truman line by the sheer weight of the big city vote—especially if the Eisenhower campaign does not jell—the chances of a Democrat who is elected that way being a successful President would be gravely impaired.

NO COUNTER REVOLUTION

For both parties, then, this is the beginning of a new political era in which a new political generation will start taking over the government. Barring a disaster, such as the outbreak of a great war, I would guess that change of party will depend on whether confidence in the Republican party's ability to govern can be made strong enough to overcome fear of the risks and uncertainties of a change. For it is fair to suppose—given full employment and general prosperity—that a majority can be found for a change of party only if the challengers pose no radical threat to the great vested group interests.

That, I think, putting aside what one might like it to be, is the basic situation at the beginning of the campaign. The country is much too prosperous to be interested in the kind of counter-revolution against the past twenty years which the romanticists of the Republican Old Guard were still dreaming about last week. The kind of change which is most likely to be popular is one which, in addition to bringing in new faces, seems certain to conserve the gains of the masses of the people as against waste and corruption, as against the threat of inflation, and above all against the threat of war and of more disaster abroad.

Fitting a Horse To the Wagon

Montreal Star

THIS is the distressing predicament in which Cy Robinson, baker, Goderich, Ont., now finds himself.

Mr. Robinson needed a new horse for his bread delivery route. He went "north" and bought one. Having bought it, it turned out to be too big a horse to fit into the trailer taken up to convey it down. So a truck was chartered to deliver the horse in Goderich. In due course the truck arrived. It carried the wrong horse.

Meantime Mr. Robinson had bought a new wagon somewhere to go with the new horse and when it was delivered it was too narrow in the shafts to fit the horse. Being of the bull-dog breed, Mr. Robinson thereupon went down to Stratford and bought a wagon wide enough in the shafts to fit the horse he originally negotiated for. Now it appears that by some continued perversity of fate that fine large horse has got away down to Sarnia, which is a long way from "up north" of Goderich, where he originally picked up its trail.

Now what we and the Goderich Signal-Star would like to know is . . . but let the Signal-Star pose the problem—"Question of the Week—will the horse which Robinson originally bought fit into the shafts of the wagon that he obtained to replace the one he got to fit the horse he didn't buy?"

You work it out!

N.Y. Edges Up In Slow Share Turnover

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—With trading well below the 1,000,000 mark, the stock market today idled along a slightly higher path.

Volume was an estimated 800,000 shares, lowest in two months.

Among the stronger individual stocks in the market were Western Union, Goodrich, Dow Chemical and Standard Oil (N.J.) with support from U.S. Steel, General Motors, Texas Co., American Smelting, and General Electric. Among downside issues were U.S. Rubber, Caterpillar Tractor, Kennecott Copper, Union Carbide, and Philip Morris.

Canadian issues were higher. Canadian Pacific and Hiram Walker each added ¼ and Dome Mines was up ⅛. International Nickel and Distillers Seagram both remained unchanged and McIntyre was not quoted.

On the curb, Lake Shore and Royalite Oil dropped ¼ and Giant Yellowknife was not changed.

Toronto Slips Back Slightly

TORONTO, July 21 (CP).—Prices edged downward today in slow early afternoon stock market dealings.

Industrial activity remained within a narrow range of selected leading issues while few golds, metals or oils attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 910,000 shares.

Textiles led industrials with a scattered list of fractional declines. Papers, steels, foods and refining oils also slipped but liquors and manufacturing companies edged upward. Utilities and banks were mixed.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about two-to-one. Anglo-Canadian, Britalta, Marigold, North Canadian, Peace River and Scurry slipped.

Base metals eased.

Montreal Mixed

MONTREAL, July 21 (CP)—Light volume held the stock exchange and curb market to a narrowly mixed rate near the close in today's trading.

Miscellaneous industrial continued stronger and senior metals turned higher. Papers were weak, showing a fair amount of declines. Senior oils were also off.

Banks, steels, beverages and utilities balanced plus and minus signs.

Mines continued to mix with changes limited to 15 cents.

Okalta, Del Rio, Jet, New British Dominion and Tor American were among the penny declines, so common in western oils.

Vancouver Slow

VANCOUVER, July 21—Noon close. Stocks idled in light turnover at Vancouver exchange in the early session today and lists closed mostly on the off side in western oils. Base metals were also weaker. Industrials were firm.

Central Leduc closed at $5.50; Del Rio $4.85; United $2.15, off 10; Pacific Pete $11¾; Calvan $7, off 10; Federated Pete $9½ and Continental $2.29.

Powell River was $23⅛; Canadian Western Lumber $9⅛.

London Slow

LONDON, July 21 (Reuters)—Slow and featureless dealings characterized the stock exchange today.

Gilt-edged slipped about a quarter and banks and insurance issues followed.

Industrials stayed independent of gilts and the tone, especially in textiles and miscellaneous leaders, improved as early offerings eased and buyers came in for some cheap stock.

Commodity shares were dull with coppers on offer from the continent. Anglo-Iranian were firm, Kaffirs ruled quietly steady.

Irregular movements were recorded in foreign bonds. Japanese started firm but subsequently eased about a point only to recover again towards the close.

United Havana (1906) debentures featured foreign rails with a two-point advance to 18 on news that the railway has to be put up for sale by tender.

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 64s, Boots Pure Drug 19s, Canadian Pacific $64½, Central Mining £1 13/16, Consolidated Gold Fields 42s 9d., Courtaulds 34s 1½d., Hudson's Bay Co. 210s, Imperial Chemical 43s 1½d., Imperial Tobacco 83s 1½d., Metal Box 50s 3d., Rand Mines 96s 3d.

Trade Gains Skip B.C. As Strike Cuts Boom

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

Business is picking up in every part of Canada—except British Columbia.

Signs are multiplying that customers are back in the stores and sales are picking up in most sections of the country. The latest slight upturn in the cost of living index, which followed closely on removal of all credit restrictions and a free hand on buying, showed that heavier purchasing was braking sliding prices.

Cahill

Official sources give five main reasons for the upsurge in buying which has helped wipe the frowns off many a merchant's face: 1, credit curbs off; 2, customers have held off so long that stocks are low; 3, during the sales lull customers have paid off bills; 4, incomes have been rising steadily; 5, prices have come down in a lot of lines.

The pickup in business is seen as a good omen for traders throughout the rest of the year. It means that manufacturers can count on a strong consumer market to back up the boom in capital goods.

B.C. SCENE

In British Columbia until recently employment was above last year's levels reflecting expansion in shipbuilding, mining, pulp and paper, power projects and steady work in the key lumber trades.

But now the effects of the long layoff in the strikebound lumber industry here are being felt. The gains in retail trade across Canada during recent months showed up strongly in B.C. with June sales up sharply for a 20 per cent gain over the same month a year earlier.

Business for July in B.C., however, is off sharply in many areas close to forest operations, according to several local surveys. A drop in trade volume of 30 per cent is estimated for many centres which depend on thousands of forest workers.

ALL TRADES HIT

Retail trade in the province, of course, is not the only sector of the economy feeling the strike pinch. District metal-working shops, specialty lumber factories, transport and harbor operations, smaller shops supplying the lumber industry with equipment, sheet metal plants and coastal freight business are all close to a standstill.

So it is that the strongest performer in the Canadian boom is now limping along in low gear and getting slower.

What will ease the picture in B.C., even if the strikes spread to other industries, is the gradual shift of workers to other sectors of the province. There is still a very strong demand for help in the interior and northern parts of B.C., where many of the largest projects are in full swing. Men have flocked to these areas already.

The actual union members on strike are not supposed to take other work while they are out, but the many thousands who are idled as a direct result of the strike are, of course, free to take what work they can find.

But even with the chronic labor shortage in B.C., it is doubtful whether movement of strike-displaced employees to other sections of the province can offset the dampening effect on the entire provincial economy of the big lumber walkout.

It seems that British Columbians can expect to go on watching the rest of Canada pull ahead without them unless strike settlements are reached soon.

Roy Pitzer and Bert Nex are going to "retire" as a partnership . . . but they won't quit working.

The two Victorians who built the Pitzer and Nex "super service" business at Douglas-Government junction where Hillside and Gorge Roads converge, have leased their holdings to Norman Corfield of Nanaimo. The firm now becomes Capital City Service. There's an option of sale involved.

The Corfield enterprises are island-wide and employ nearly 300 men and women.

Mr. Nex is going to stay with the service station as supervising manager, working with Ronnie Stores, manager and Gordon Posey, for a time. Mr. Pitzer is going to operate an apartment house enterprise.

The old Pitzer and Nex operation now becomes a part of a widespread chain extending from Campbell River through Courtenay, Horne Lake, Parksville, Nanaimo, Ladysmith and Duncan.

Mr. Pitzer will manage the apartment block which he and Mr. Nex, with a California associate, operate at Southgate and Humboldt, facing on Vancouver Street.

Messrs. Pitzer and Nex are well known here for their sponsorship of amateur sports activities.

Alberta Minister Takes Job As Head of Major Oil Firm

CALGARY, July 21 (BUP).—The key man in Alberta's oil boom, Nathan E. Tanner, has been appointed president and managing director of Merrill Petroleums Ltd.

His appointment was announced here today by Edward S. Magowan of New York, president of Merrill Canadian Oil No. 1 Ltd., of Calgary.

The 54-year-old Alberta cabinet minister announced his intention to retire from public life June 28th, but gave no indication of his plans.

Merrill Petroleums Ltd. is a new oil and gas development company being formed by the merger of three Alberta oil concerns, Merrill Canadian Oil No. 1 Ltd., Cascade Drilling Company Ltd. and Merrill Development Co. Ltd.

Magowan said Tanner would take over his new duties early in September.

Tanner, a school teacher by profession and a resident of the province for the past 53 years, was first elected to the legislature in the Social Credit landslide in 1935. He was chosen Speaker of the House in February, 1936, and was relected at the general elections in 1940, 1944 and 1948.

He was appointed lands and mines minister in 1937 and in 1949 when the portfolio was divided into two departments.

'My Six Convicts' New Kramer Film From Best-Seller

Those six astonishing characters who made a best-selling Book of the Month of Donald Powell Wilson's "My Six Convicts" have been brought to the screen in Columbia Pictures' new Stanley Kramer Company production which opens Friday at the Odeon Theatre.

"My Six Convicts" casts John Beal as the psychologist who went into the Big House to test the convicts and almost went nuts doing it.

The action starts when Dr. Wilson comes to the prison and discovers he must convince the convicts that psychologist does not mean stool-pigeon. Slowly, he wins the confidence of six convicts, the prisoners he induces to help him with his psychological studies. Since his half-dozen include the toughest yeggs in the jail, the other convicts rapidly fall into line.

"My Six Convicts" take advantage of their privileged positions as the psychologist's aides to pull a number of stunts, including smuggling Randall's wife in and out of jail. However, most of the six develop a real affection for the Doc, and when a mass jail-break puts the doctor's life in jeopardy, his assistants come to the rescue.

Michael Blankfort wrote the screen play of "My Six Convicts," which was directed by Hugo Fregonese. Edna and Edward Anhalt were associate producers.

WITH THE ELGAR CHOIR

Norwich, Winsford Salt Mines, Chester Cathedral Are Visited

(B.C. girls now on tour of the United Kingdom have recently visited Britain's only salt mine and have been sightseeing in the ancient and historical city of Chester. Kitty Dixon, one of two Esquimalt girls with the choir, describes these experiences in the fourth of a series of articles written for the Times.)

BY KITTY DIXON

Northwich, a typically English village in Cheshire, gave the Elgar Choir a royal welcome.

We were met at the Methodist church by ladies of the congregation, who had prepared a luncheon for us. Then we were given time to visit the many black and white half-timbered shops along the town's narrow cobblestone streets, before giving a concert that evening.

Kitty

A chartered bus took us to Winsford the following morning, to visit Britain's only salt mine. Our guide, T. H. Wiliams, general manager, met us at the gate and took us in an elevator to the mine, 500 feet below. Over a century old, and kept at a constant temperature of 54 degrees, the mine is 24 acres in area, and consists of two beds of rock salt.

Although there are lights strung from pillar to pillar in the caves, we found it difficult to see. However, after our eyes had become accustomed to the darkness, we could distinguish the many colored crystalline forms of salt, which glisten from the ceiling and walls of the mine.

Our guide demonstrated the various steps in mining to us, from drilling and blasting to the loading of large blocks of rock salt, ready to be shipped to Australia for cattle-lick. Then, to complete our tour, we were taken to a factory in the nearby town of Middlewich, where we were shown the process involved in the manufacture of table salt.

The ancient city of Chester was our next stop. Upon arrival at the Town Hall we were taken to the 300-year-old Blossoms Hotel for dinner, and then to the Queen's School, where we gave a concert.

Next morning found us sightseeing in this beautiful old city, which originated as a Roman fortress in the seventies of the first century, A.D.

We visited the Chester Cathedral, walked along the city wall, and saw the tower of King Charles I, where he witnessed the defeat of his army in 1645.

In the afternoon we shopped along the "Rows" of Chester, which are the city's most distinctive architectural feature. Built in the middle ages, the Rows consist of a double tier of shops, one at ground level and the other at first-floor level. They are unique and world famous.

Our visit to Chester was all too short, and we left the city wishing that we could have stayed longer.

Vancouver Suffers

VANCOUVER, July 21 (BUP) —Vancouver lost about $80,000 through the 1951 federal census, provincial government figures revealed Saturday.

The government said Vancouver's share of the sales tax and motor vehicle license funds went down that much due to the population revealed in the census, lower than estimates.

From both sources, Vancouver received about $4,722,000, compared with $4,790,563 the year before.

FILM REVIEW By PHIL LEE

TWO for the SHOW

ODDS AND SODS—Ye gods and flying saucers! After 19 years they're bringing back the fantastic-horror picture "King Kong," the outmoded story of a giant (75 ft.) gorilla who panics a nation. Heroes of Hollywood and elite of Ealing, it is, according to press reports, outdrawing all your recent releases.

Can it be that this obsolete relic of celluloidism, where ancient biplanes shoot a phony monster from atop the Empire State Building, be the shrine of culture for the atomic age? This brave "new world"? Have our post-war pictures been so unbelievably poor that this caricature of a film, born in 1933 for $400,000, glisten in abysmal comparison?

Lee

Or does it merely signify the cultural tombstone of our civilization where our war-weary, money-making atomized brain cells have atrophied into puerile wastes?

Me? Oh, I'm going to see "King Kong," too. In fact I can hardly wait for it to come to town.

FOUR GOLD MEDALS

U.S. Scores In Olympics

By TED SMITS

HELSINKI, July 21 (AP)—The United States marked up four Olympic victories and two records today.

Despite a couple of scares in the semifinals, shot-putter Parry O'Brien of Southern California, sprinter Lindy Remigino of Manhattan and Hurdler Charlie Moore of Cornell, all earned the right to ascend to the top of the dais for the Olympic victory ceremonies.

O'Brien set a new Olympic record of 57 feet 1.43 inches to lead the way in an American sweep of the first three places. Moore, son of a member of the 1924 United States Olympic team, equalled the record he set in his trial heat Sunday, when he won the 400 meter hurdles in 50.8 seconds.

CLOSE FINISH

Remigino, given second place in his semifinal heat on what many spectators considered a doubtful decision, won the 100-meter dash final in a finish so close that all the first four finishers were given the same time, 10.4 seconds.

Judges took 20 minutes to study the pictures before reaching a decision. His winning time was 10.4 seconds.

Herb McKenley of Jamaica was second, Emanuel McDonald Bailey of Great Britain, third, and Dean Smith of Texas, fourth. The first four men finished within inches of each other.

All first four places were given the same time as the winner, Remigino.

Vladimir Soukharev of Russia was fifth, and John Treloar of Australia was sixth. The last two were both clocked in 10.5 seconds.

MOORE VICTOR

Charlie Moore of the United States held off a desperate challenge by Jurii Lituev of Russia in the final yards and won the 400 meter hurdler championship.

John Holland of New Zealand was third.

Anatolii Julin of Russia was fourth, Harry Whittle of Great Britain was fifth, and Armando Filiput of Italy was sixth.

Jerry Biffle of the United States Army won the broad jump—fourth U.S. victory of the day—with a leap of 7.57 metres (24 feet, 10.03 inches).

Meredith Gourdine of the United States was second with a jump of 7.51 metres (24 feet, 7.67 inches).

George Brown, the American favorite, fouled three times and was eliminated before the final three laps.

NEW MARK

O'Brien's shot put performance wiped out the Olympic mark of 56 feet 2.03 inches set by Wilbur Thompson of the United States at London in 1948.

An early morning downpour flooded the stadium track and made a bog of the jumping pits. Athletes feared the wet footing conditions might seriously affect their performances in today's scheduled broad jump, pole vault and shot put events.

As the day's events started, Russia led in the unofficial team standings with 23 points, while the U.S. was second with 15.

At the nearby Meilhati course, the second day's rowing competition began. After the heavy shower had cleared, a bright sun shone on the mirror-calm lane in the Gulf of Finland over which the races were held.

HELSINKI, July 21 (CP).—Adrien Poliquin of Montreal lost to Ferdinand Schmitz of Germany today in the bantamweight class of Olympic wrestling. Poliquin was a quick victim, the German wrestler pinning him in 30 seconds.

Interest of every country in the world will be focused on Helsinki's Olympic Stadium for the next two weeks as the 15th Olympiad sees nearly 6,000 of the world's greatest athletes compete for Olympic medals. The games officially opened Saturday with 70,000 people packing the stands in spite of heavy rain. (NEA-Telephoto.)

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Helsinki, July 21 (CP)—Eleanor McKenzie of Vancouver qualified for the second-round heats in the women's 100-metre dash, placing second in her preliminary heat today.

Another Vancouver girl, Luella Law, missed qualifying by placing third in another heat—the same fate that eliminated Rosella Thorne of Montreal.

Miss McKenzie ran second to South Africa's Daphne Hasenjager who won the heat in 11.9 seconds. Miss McKenzie was timed in 12.2.

Marjorie Jackson of Australia was winner of the heat in which Luella Law placed third. The Australian girl won in 11.6, with Yvette Monginou of France placing second in 12.3 and qualifying. Miss Law's time was 12.4.

Canadian Rowing Crews Eliminated

HELSINKI, July 21 (AP)—Canada's double sculls entry of Bob Williams and Derek Riley was eliminated from Olympic rowing competition today.

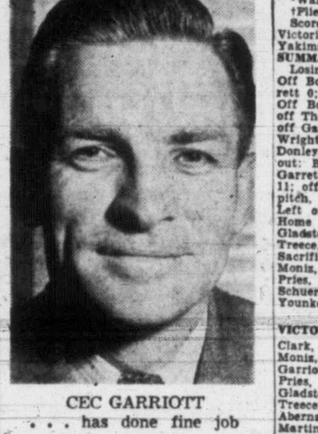
The Winnipeg combination, fourth-place finishers in their heat Sunday, had another chance in the repechage, or second-chance phase for non-winners. But they finished fourth again, behind Belgium, Switzerland and Sweden. Only Belgium, the heat-winner, qualified for the semi-finals.

The winning Belgians' time was 7.03.2. The Canadians were clocked in 7.15.5.

Hamilton Leanders were eliminated in their repechage heat in the four-oar (without coxswain) class. The Leanders, who finished third in their heat Sunday, could do no better today.

HELSINKI, July 21 (Reuters)—The British Empire Games Federation Sunday approved a new draft constitution changing the title of the games to the "British Empire and Commonwealth Games."

Tyee Fans to Honor Cec Garriott Tuesday



CEC GARRIOTT
. . . has done fine job

They're paying homage to Cec Garriott Tuesday night at the ball park, the fellow who has Victoria Tyees so far ahead in the Western International League that they're almost out of sight.

It will be called "Cec Garriott Night" and it comes at a time when he has the Tyees in a favorable position to bring Victoria its first W.I.L. pennant since Victoria joined the loop.

The popular and hard-working manager will receive gifts from fans, the management and his own players in tribute to the job of managing he has done this season.

The Tyees will likely have two new players in harness by Tuesday night. Catcher Ron Bottler, 19-year-old brother of Tyee hurler Bill Bottler, is expected to arrive Tuesday on assignment from Portland Beavers.

Traveling with Bottler will be Dwane Helbig, recently signed by Portland from Oregon State College. Helbig is a hard-hitting outfielder who was picked to the All-American college baseball team.

The two new players will put the Tyees two over the team limit and business manager Reg. Patterson reported this morning that other player transactions are in the offing to cut the squad to league conformity.

Lorino Gets 16th Win As Tyees Cuff Yakima

Club Concludes Most Successful Road Trip

Victoria Tyees arrived in town today, leaving behind them a trail of destruction in the Western International League cities they visited in their 13-game road trip.

By racking up Yakima Bears 5-3 Saturday night and 1-0 and 8-2 in a twin bill Sunday night, the Tyees brought home a record of 11 wins and two losses on their most successful road jaunt of the season.

Ben Lorino and rookie Bill Bottler were the winning pitchers Sunday night. Bill Prior gained his second victory of the season Saturday night as the Tyees cooled off the torrid Bears and extended their own league lead to 10 full games over Spokane Indians, the longest margin they have enjoyed this season.

Lorino turned in a sizzling pitching chore in blanking the Bears as he set them down with two hits to gain his 16th win of the season and his sixth shutout.

The only hits he gave up were a pair of doubles to first baseman Len Noren. He was helped out of trouble by sparkling catches by Bob Moniz and Cec Garriott which cut off potential Yakima runs.

TREECE CONNECTS

Victoria's lone run came in the fourth inning when Garriott doubled, was sacrificed to third and scored on John Treece's single to centre field.

Bottler gave up 11 walks in the second game but Yakima could get the rookie for only four hits.

Lu Branham clouted an inside-the-park homer to help Bottler's cause.

SECOND WIN

Saturday night, Prior went the route for his second win, scattering eight hits, walking seven and whiffing four. He has yet to lose.

Prior batted in the winning run with a fourth-inning single. Treece was the top Tyee sticker with three singles.

Vancouver Capilanos humbled Wenatchee Chiefs twice Sunday, walloping the Chiefs 22-2 in the first game and taking the second 6-2.

The Caps pounded out 29 hits in the first game with Bob Duretto getting two doubles and three singles, scoring three runs and driving in five. Bob Snyder picked up the victory.

INDIANS WIN TWO

Spokane Indians won two out of three week-end games with Salem Senators, winning 5-1 and losing 10-3 Saturday night and winning 2-0 Sunday night on Frank Chase's three-hitter.

Lewiston Broncs knocked Tri-City Bears down three times, 11-5 Saturday and 2-1 and 7-2 Sunday.

Vancouver took Wenatchee 8-6 in 10 innings Saturday.

Mark-Ye-Well Takes Classic

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—The combination of the famed Calumet Farm trainer, Ben Jones, jockey Eddie Arcaro and the horse, Mark-Ye-Well, was more than enough Saturday to win $105,375, the richest purse in three-year-old racing history.

Over a muddy racing strip at Arlington Park, Arcado guided Mark-Ye-Well to a five-length victory in the Arlington classic mile before a sweltering crowd of 26,766.

Canadian Marksmen Lose Bisley Honors

BISLEY, Surrey, Eng., July 21 (CP)—Canada Saturday lost the top individual and team events of the Bisley rifle meet which she won last year—the Queen's Prize and the Rajah of Kolapore Imperial Challenge Cup.

However, in the 12-day shoot which ended Saturday, Canada's 22-man team won four first prizes and placed in six other competitions.

Maj. A. B. Kinnier-Wilson, 35, a Harley Street doctor, formerly of the Royal Army Medical Corps, won the Queen's Prize of 250 guineas. He scored 277 out of a possible 300.

South Africa won the Kolapore prize, shooting 381 at 500 yards and 370 at 600 yards, a total of 1,123 points out of a possible 1,200. Canada came third with a total of 1,106.

Best Canadian in the individual shoot was Capt. G. J. Gamble of Winnipeg, who scored 267 to place 12th.

Final scores and positions of the other Canadians in the individual shoot were: Maj. T. W. Hall, New Westminster, B.C., 262, 43rd; Maj. W. J. Strachan, Canadian attache at Stockholm, not a member of the official team, 260, 50th; Sqd. Ldr. D. Reynolds, Ottawa, 260, 53rd; Wing Cmdr. A. G. Gordon, Ottawa, 255, 68th; Sgt. C. NOTHIN' TO THIS GAME OF GOLF, THINKS MIKE

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 21 (BUP)—Novice Mike Maroosis thinks this game of golf is just fine.

He scored a hole-in-one after two lessons.

Maroosis wound up the second lesson with professional Bob Barringer Saturday, then decided on a few rounds about the North Bay Golf and Country Club course.

A three-iron shot off the ninth tee proved a perfect hole-in-one, the first here in three years.

N.B.A. Raps Cold Shoulder Tactics

By ANTHONY CATELLA

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The National Boxing Association Saturday criticized titleholders for giving Archie Moore of St. Louis the "cold shoulder" and named him as the No. 3 challenger in the heavyweight division.

In announcing its quarterly ratings, the N.B.A. placed Moore, a legitimate light-heavyweight, right behind the No. 1 and 2 challengers, Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles.

The new rating is in addition to Moore's billing as the "sole logical contender" in the light-heavyweight group.

For years, Moore, a 36-year-old veteran of nearly 200 boxing matches, has been rated as top challenger in the light-heavyweight group. He has been bypassed continuously by the champions. Since 1949, Moore has knocked out 24 opponents and won 11 other bouts by decisions.

CHARGE EVASION

The N.B.A. accused the big men of evading Moore, saying "Moore has received nothing but the cold shoulder."

In another double billing, Randy Turpin of England, was named the No. 1 challenger in the light-heavyweight division.

Arthur King of Toronto and Philadelphia was the only Canadian listed by the N.B.A. King, a native of Winnipeg, is rated an outstanding boxer in the lightweight class. Lauro Salas of Mexico is champion.

Jimmy Carter of New York and George Araujo were among the logical contenders for Salas' crown.

Ray Famechon of France, Tommy Collins, Glen Flanagan and Gene Smith were listed as logical contenders for the featherweight title of Sandy Saddler, now in the armed services. Willie Pep is rated among the outstanding boxers in the featherweight class.

Dado Marino of Hawaii is No. 1 contender for the flyweight title held by Yoshio Shirai of Japan, and Jim Carruthers of Australia is leading candidate for the bantamweight title held by Vic Toweel of South Africa.

Charles Humez is No. 2 contender to Turpin for Ray Robinson's middleweight crown.

Billy Graham is No. 1 contender for Cuban welterweight champion Kid Gavilan's throne.

GOODMAN TOPS A.L.

Musial Regains N.L. Batting Leadership

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—In a week marked by a general slump of the top batters, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals regained the National League batting lead while Boston's Billy Goodman maintained his position at the head of the American League derby.

Musial, although he showed a loss of seven points as a result of a 7-for-28 showing, led Chicago's Bob Addis .323 to .321 through games of last Sunday. Addis, last week's leader, garnered only five safeties in 23 trips to the plate and skidded 14 points.

Despite a 12-point tailspin, Goodman held a 10-point advantage over his closest competitor, Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics. Billy showed a .336 average to Fain's .326, a two-point improvement for the Philadelphia first baseman. Goodman collected only seven hits in 29 times at bat and Fain 12 in 35.

Third place among the National League batsmen was held by Toby Atwell, Chicago Cub catcher. Atwell, a strong candidate for N.L. rookie of the year honors, picked up six points to .317 last week and moved up from the fifth slot.

New York's Whitey Lockman, ninth last week, jumped into a fourth-place tie with Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati and Brooklyn's Andy Pafko at .312. Whitey rapped out 11 bingles in 25 tries (a .448 pace) for a gain of 10 points. Kluszewski, out of the running last week, spurted 15 points with a 12-for-26 effort, and Pafko, another top 10 newcomer, had 12 hits in 27 at bat, explaining his 13-point surge.

Four Olympic Standards Smashed In Heats and First Track Events

HELSINKI, July 21—Four Olympic records fell in Sunday's competition at the Olympic Games.

Here's what happened in the record smashing:

Emil Zatopek electrified the crowd of 70,000 jammed into Helsinki's Olympic Stadium by breaking his own 1948 mark in the 10,000-metre race. Zatopek, a major in the Czechoslovakian army, became the first hero of the 1952 games and the crowd revelled in both his performance and his antics.

Zatopek, when running, looks as if he were undergoing a major operation without benefit of anesthetics. He rolls his head, grimaces, sticks out his tongue and waves his arms.

The more it looks as if he were about to collapse, the faster he goes. In winning the 10,000 metres Sunday Zatopek lowered his old mark, made at London four years ago, from 29.59.6 to 29.17.0.

Now he is talking about winning the 5,000 metres and going on into the marathon.

Nina Romaschkova, a new name among the powerful Russian athletes, hurled the discus 168 feet, 8.46 inches (51.42 metres) to set a record for women discus tossers. The old mark of 47.63 metres was made at Berlin in 1936 by Gisela Mauermayer of Germany. Two other Russian girls placed second and third.

Walt Davis, a Texas cowboy, broke the high-jump record, clearing the bar at six feet, 8.32 inches—2.04 metres—to eclipse the old mark of six feet, 7.93 inches set by Cornelius Johnson of the United States, also at Berlin in 1936.

The fourth record went to Charlie Moore, a former Cornell University star, who won his heat in the 400-metre hurdles in 50.8 seconds, three-tenths of a second better than the previous mark of 51.1 set by Ray Cochrene of the U.S. in 1948.

Jack Hutchins' heat-winning performance in the 800-metre preliminaries proved Canada's best showing in track and field. He came from behind to win by half a step from John Barnes of the United States and Jeno Bakos of Hungary. The finish was so close all three runners were clocked in 1.54.5.

Preliminary heats in the 100-metre sprints proved a complete blackout for Canada. Don McFarlane came up with a third place and just missed qualifying. He was beaten by Werner Zandt and Pakistan's Jedmadar Aslam.

Bob Hutchison of Victoria was fifth in his heat and Pete Sutton of Toronto sixth.

Hutchison was well up with the leaders most of the way but didn't have the final kick to keep him there and he finished three yards behind the heat winner, Etienne Bally of France, and one yard behind Anguel Koleff of Hungary.

WINS CANADIAN OPEN

Palmer Shatters Par, Tradition

WINNIPEG, July 21 (CP)—Johnny Palmer, a friendly invader from North Carolina, wrote a new chapter for the record books and debunked two golfing traditions Saturday in winning the Canadian Open golf championship.

Palmer took home $3,000 first prize money and the Seagram Gold Cup with a record medal score of 263 over the 72-hole route on rounds of 66-65-66-66—25 strokes below par. That clipped five strokes off the previous record of 268 shot by Bobby Locke of South Africa in 1947.

His 11-stroke margin over the second-place finishers was the biggest in records dating back to 1933. Lawson Little won by eight strokes in 1936 and Joe Kirkwood by eight in 1933. Figures for previous years are not available.

Palmer shattered a Canadian Open tradition that the second-day leader won't wind up on top. And he reversed the old theory that in golf the pressure is on the leader. His nerveless, near-perfect play put the pressure on the field—and the field gave way.

FERRIER FAR BACK

His score was 10 strokes better than the 273 Jim Ferrier, the big Australian who plays out of San Francisco, shot to win the title a year ago. Ferrier, also winner in 1950 with 271, was completely out of the picture this year with 284 which put him in a tie for 21st place.

Freddy Haas Jr., of New Orleans, who finished with a brilliant 66 over the St. Charles Golf and Country Club course where he won the Canadian amateur in 1936, pulled into a second-place tie with Dick Mayer of St. Petersburgh, Fla., with 274.

LEONARD TOPS CANADIANS

Canadian pros didn't get into the picture until the 12th-place ranking where Stan Leonard appeared with 280 to win the Rivermead Cup as low Canadian professional for the fifth time—more than any other golfer. His score was two strokes better than the 282 he shot last year to finish sixth. The record score for a Canadian was the 276 Gray shot in 1941. Leonard won $325 plus $200 as low Canadian.

Four other Canadians got into the money list—Henry Martell of Edmonton won $200 with his score of 282, Rudy Horvath of Windsor $175 with 284, Al Balding of Toronto $141.66 with 285 and Gordon Brydson of Toronto $75 with 287.

Palmer's four rounds bettered the previous competitive record for the St. Charles course—a 67 Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., shot three years ago. They compared with Locke's 1947 record string of 68-66-67-67, 16 strokes under par for the Toronto Scarboro course which plays at 71. St. Charles is 72.

The two clubs will play each other three times this week in order to pick up games and close up the schedule.

U.S.H.L. May Operate on Reduced Scale

DENVER, July 21 (AP)—The United States Hockey League, placed in the deep freeze last year, may be revived on a smaller scale this winter.

Representatives from five cities—Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, Tulsa and Wichita—will meet in Wichita before Aug. 1 to discuss reviving operations.

A representative of the Denver Arena corporation, holder of the Denver Falcon franchise, said action will have to be taken before Aug. 1.

The circuit would play a 44-game schedule, beginning in October, the spokesman said.

The U.S. league played a 70-game slate in 1950-51. An effort would be made to keep travel expenses at a minimum.

SOFTBALL MEETING

The Colwood and District Softball League will hold an important meeting in Luxton Hall Wednesday night at 8. Topics of the meeting will be playoff dates and trophy presentations.

Nats Win Close Ones

Score 21st One-Run Victory To Take Third in AL. Race

By Associated Press

Four consecutive victories by one run and 21 one-run triumphs for the season—that is the principal reason why Washington's scrappy Senators are in third place today after all but a handful of experts had picked them to finish in the American League cellar.

The Nats took their fourth straight one-run victory Sunday as they swept a doubleheader from St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 6-3 to move into third place, a half-game in front of Cleveland Indians and a half-game behind Boston Red Sox. The double victory stretched their winning streak to five and left them five games away from the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Connie Marrero was the first-game winner and Bob Porterfield registered his seventh win of the season in the second game.

Previous to Marrero's one-run victory, the Senators had beaten Detroit 1-0 Thursday and nipped St. Louis 6-5 Friday and 2-1 Saturday.

The Red Sox picked up a full game on the Yankees, vanquishing the Indians 8-7 in 12 innings while the fifth-place Chicago White Sox were upsetting the world champions 5-4.

Philadelphia Athletics took the opening of a doubleheader from Detroit 8-7 and played a 3-3 tie in the second game, halted by Pennsylvania's 7 p.m. curfew at the end of nine innings.

DODGERS RAMBLE

Brooklyn's runaway Dodgers maintained their seven-and-a-half-game bulge in the National League, taking Pittsburgh Pirates into camp for the 13th straight time, 8-5. The runner-up New York Giants whipped Chicago Cubs, 9-7, and the third-place St. Louis Cardinals defeated Boston Braves, 8-4.

Philadelphia and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader, the Phillies bounding back with a 4-3 win after the Reds had taken the opener, 6-5, in 10 innings.

Del Ennis smacked two doubles and a home run as Robin Roberts won his 14th game for the Phillies in the nightcap. Andy Seminick, former Phil, cracked a fifth-inning homer in the role of a pinch hitter for the Reds in the first game.

Mainwaring Leads Side To Victory

Bob Mainwaring led the way Sunday as pick-up 11 defeated Jim Richards' 11 in a friendly cricket match at Beacon Hill Park.

Mainwaring batted up 75 runs not out to pace his side as they ran up 204 runs and declared for the loss of five wickets.

Richards' side, paced by a 32 by M. Scott, ran up 170 before they were retired.

Lieut. Hibbert Navy Medalist

Lieut. W. Hibbert carded a net 65 Saturday at Gorge Vale Golf Club to take medalist honors in the first round of the R.C.N. Corby and Wiser trophy competition. Runners-up were CPO. Plume and C. Scott with 67's.

E. Barber was the low gross winner with 78.

Second round of the competition will be held at an undesignated course Aug. 2 with the final round Aug. 9.

Albions Take City Cricket Leadership

Standings in the Victoria and District Cricket Association underwent a complete shuffle with three matches Saturday.

Albions took over the lead from Incogs by defeating the former leaders 120-84, Five C's were dropped to third place behind Incogs when they were beaten 73-64 by Oak Bay and Alcos moved out of the league cellar by disposing of Cowichan in a close match, 100-97.

In reaching the top rung, Albions featured precise batting by Dennis Hendra, who batted up 44 runs in a first-wicket stand going out, leg-before-wicket. D. Wilkinson amassed 34 runs, not out, for Albions. Top batsman for the losers was Melly, who knocked out 35.

Tom McIvenny took five Incog wickets for 19 runs to lead the bowlers.

Bay Scullers Show Promise

Rowing received a great boost for its revival program Saturday when the James Bay Athletic Association turned in a sparkling performance in the B.C. championship meet at Coal Harbor, Vancouver.

The young James Bay crews picked up three seconds in their first taste of strong competition, missing first-place finishes by narrow margins.

In the junior fours, James Bay finished second, two lengths behind the Vancouver Olympic Club. The local crew was composed of Tegid Jones, Bill Cochrane, Jim Hallam and Jim Olver.

Warren Harrison recorded the second runner-up finish in the junior singles, half a length behind the winners.

The novice event saw James Bay turn in a commendable second with a team composed of Ken Toby, Harrison, Dave Mauldin and Hallam.

Next step for the ambitious club is the Kelowna Regatta, Aug. 2, where they hope to turn in an even more impressive performance than they did Saturday.

Chinooks-Farmers Tied For Senior Ball Lead

It's all square again for Chinooks and Farmer Construction of the Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Farmers took the league lead with a victory Friday night but Chinooks came right back again Saturday afternoon to force a top seat deadlock by thumping Eagles 9-1 at Athletic Park.

Saturday night Harris Cycles racked up their third win of the season by rapping Master Plumbers 12-2. Cycles climbed into a third-place tie with Plumbers.

Chinooks rang up a total of 15 base hits in their victory while Chinook pitchers Paul Beck and Don McKinnon, who split the mound chores, gave up only one base hit apiece.

Pete Kirchner made his pitching debut for Eagles and gave up 13 of the hits but was still impressive in his first start. He struck out 11 and walked four. He was lifted in the eighth in favor of Bill Evans.

Eagles got their only run of the game in the first inning on two walks and a two-base error.

DOROHOY HITS

Second baseman Eddie Dorohoy demonstrated that he is just as adept with a bat as with a hockey stick by picking up four hits, including a double, to pace the Chinook offensive. First baseman Ken Wright rapped out three singles.

The Plumbers-Cycles game was close until the fourth inning when the Plumbers' defense fell to pieces, allowing Cycles to push seven runs across the plate.

Winning pitcher Ray Ramsey gave up seven hits and struck out eight.

Motorist Gets Flat Tire at Wrong Spot

TORONTO, July 21 (BUP).—William McKinlay figured today his flat tire couldn't have come at either a worse time or place.

He was hurrying across a railway crossing Sunday when the right front tire blew and the wheel jammed in the tracks. McKinlay and a passenger leaped out, tried pushing, but were forced to jump for their lives as a train came down the tracks and wrecked the car.

Heyday of Horsemeat Goes as Stores Close

Cheap Cuts Sell for Dog Feed Still But Better Buys No Longer Popular

The saddle and sirloin crowd are back to roast beef instead of horsemeat in Victoria.

Three of the city's four horsemeat stores have closed up shop and the fourth and last is due to close "in about a week," according to the proprietor.

The sale of horsemeat which got off to a big and much-publicized start in Victoria last August has dwindled to practically nothing.

PRICE DROPS

Drop in the price of other meats is held largely responsible, together with the fact that many of the first horsemeat buyers were "curiosity seekers."

"I'll try anything once," was the attitude of a number. The first three or four months business was quite good.

Proprietor of the Rodeo Market on Douglas street said he had "a steady foreign trade" but it was not sufficient to keep business going.

A large quantity of dog food is sold, but the more expensive cuts of meat are left, he said.

A group of Victoria electrical contractors and their wives will fly to Abbotsford on Wednesday, Aug. 6, to participate in a one-day convention of the Electrical Contractors' Association of B.C.

Plane Crash Kills U.S. Sportsman

DEEP RIVER, Ont., July 21 (BUP)—Two men were in hospital today following a plane crash on the Dumoine River that killed their fishing companion and knocked both of them unconscious.

Charles Johnston of Troy, N.Y., died instantly when a Seabee amphibian crashed back into the river after its engine failed during takeoff.

Pilot William Wilt, 30, of Albany, N.Y., and a local guide, Percy Lance, were knocked out. The thirty-one-year-old guide, however, regained consciousness and staggered a half mile through the bush to summon help.

Two Indians found the dazed guide with one shoulder dislocated, his scalp badly gashed and both legs injured.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

It is a pretty pass to which Our Boys in Helsinki have come.

According to the estimable and trustworthy Archie McKinnon, Our Boys are so surrounded with womenfolk that they hardly know which way to turn.

At every step, they stumble over Finnish femininity, and Archie complains that "it's distracting."

Well, all I can say is, I will bet you there are a good many men lurking around the vicinity of the Women's Olympic Village.

And I will bet you that you do not hear Our Girls going around complaining about distractions.

What is the matter with Our Boys? Are they Boys or are they Mice?

Archie says they have to run to get away from the women.

That is nothing to the running they will have to do when they get home and the girls they left behind them demand explanations.

NOTES TO FOLKS: Mrs. Jordan, the name of the tune you're seeking is "Destiny Waltz" . . . Thanks to Mrs. George Masters for the amusing tip . . . and to Mrs. MacDougall for the kind words . . . hope you made a mint at the View Royal carnival . . . were you being funny on purpose, Don Wilson, when you pronounced it IllINOISE? . . . I guess it is, what with conventions . . . what's happening about the free parking meter slugs idea, George Warren? . . . well, gee whiz, Maurice Humber, but Winchell . . . who's Winchell?

The motion picture "Mr. 880" was based on an actual case, from the files of the F.B.I. And the leading role was inspired by an actual counterfeiter who, despite his gentle nature, wound up behind bars.

Well, there is a sequel to both the motion picture and the jail sentence of the real-life hero.

Edmund Gwenn, the star of the picture, who visited here last week, delights to tell about it.

Shortly after the picture was released, a friend sent Gwenn a clipping from a New York newspaper. It told of the re-arrest of the actual counterfeiter a few days after he'd been released from prison.

The charge: Driving an automobile without a license!

As Gwenn points out, the man could have counterfeited a half-dozen licenses in no time at all.

I am a great one to be talking about motion pictures and motion picture stars.

I haven't seen a motion picture since Francis was a foal.

But I do hear that they have talking motion pictures nowadays. Must see one, if a good one comes along.

HE'S NO NEST TO FEATHER

If You Drink, Don't Fly! George Migrates by Motor

A robin named George, here from Columbus, Ohio, has started to hit the bottle.

Civilization is just too much for him.

The bird came here with Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Thomas, a friendly couple touring the northwest and visiting Victoria for the first time. It is pretty certain it's George's first visit here, too. He was too young when he met Mr. and Mrs. Thomas to have done much migrating on his own. That first meeting was in a field in Ohio.

George was in poor shape that day. He was content to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas.

They got him on television . . . twice. And he's had his picture in a number of leading American newspapers.

Ordinarily, he lives in a cage. He's allowed out at night and comes home when he's called.

But there is no doubt about it . . . his liking for the bottle may have something to do with his sticking so close to the folks who can provide the well-known cough cure.

It's funny what civilization, television and newspaper publicity can do to a bird.

His taste in diet has changed, too.

Ever since he had heat prostration in California and they let him have a sip of something to give him a lift, George has had queer appetites. Worms are no longer the delicacy they were. Spaghetti, bacon and beans, peas and corn, and other tidbits, George finds desirable snacks between nips.

After all, a fellow can't be expected to fly on one wing.

FIREMEN FIND WEEK-END WARM

Seventeen fires were attended by fire departments in the Greater Victoria area over the week-end.

City firemen fought 12 small grass and chimney fires; Saanich attended two bush fires and two small house fires and the Oak Bay department was called to a chimney fire.

SLIM PROFITS FOR ISLAND RASPBERRIES

Big Mainland Crop Cuts Prices Here

Vancouver Island growers are being offered such a low price for their raspberries that it scarcely pays them to pick their bumper crop, it was learned today from the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Jam manufacturers are paying 11 cents for a pound of berries. Cost of picking the berries is between five and six cents a pound. This leaves growers with a margin of about five cents a pound to pay for labor, shipping, crating and a year's work in care, fertilizer and irrigation.

The department said the price was low this year because of a large mainland crop.

"The mainland crop is estimated at 6,011 crates, an increase of 11 per cent over last year's crop," an official said. "This tended to bring the price of berries down."

CRUISES SET FOR NAVY DAY

Victoria civilians will get a chance to put in a little "sea time" on Royal Canadian Navy ships during Navy Day, July 26.

Plans are being made to organize brief "cruises" in H.M.C.S. Antigonish, Beacon Hill and Sault Ste. Marie. Tickets will be made available, without charge, at the various shoreside displays in Beacon Hill Park, and buses will take visitors from the park to Ogden Point, where they will embark in the navy ships.

The ships will take the visitors for a close look at the other Canadian and U.S. warships, lying at anchor off Dallas Road.

Four Injured In Holiday Traffic

Neck Fracture Suspected In Glanford Ave. Crash

Four persons were injured in week-end accidents and a stolen car caused medium damage when it crashed into a vehicle in Beacon Hill Park Saturday night.

Taken to Jubilee Hospital by Saanich police after an accident on Glanford, Saturday night, were:

Miss Jackie Lewers, 2120 Penzance, possible fracture of the neck and facial cuts; Bernard E. Trinball, 2213 Windsor, facial cuts and bruises; Charles McIsaac, 60 Speed Avenue.

Miss Lewers was reported in good condition today.

The driver of the car, Wendel B. Botterill, 3356 Oak, was uninjured.

Damage was estimated at $500.

Police said the vehicle apparently missed a turn on Glanford, then tore through a fense, hit a post and rolled on its side.

R.C.M.P. reported a car driven by David Holman, 134 Gorge Road West, hit a telephone pole on the Sooke Road near the Glen Lake flats Sunday night and caused about $200 damage.

A passenger, Margaret Monaghan, 819 Fort, was taken to Jubilee Hospital with minor head injuries.

On Saturday night, car stolen from outside an Esquimalt beer parlor crashed into a second vehicle in Beacon Hill Park, driven by David McConachie, 1425 Fairfield, and caused medium damage.

The stolen car was later found abandoned in the 200-block Vancouver Street by traffic officer Angus Stewart and brought to the city police station.

Civil Defense Chiefs Mum On Bishop Report

Only Hatcher Breaks Silence to Say Ex-Officer's Authority Unrecognized

All but one official at the local and provincial levels of civil defense administration refused to comment today on charges of waste and inadequacy made by former city police Sergeant Arthur H. Bishop.

The exception was Leonard G. Hatcher, local target area director. He would not recognize Mr. Bishop's reports, which The Times is publishing in series, he said. He had never heard of Mr. Bishop, he added, and could not weigh his authority.

He suggested Mr. Bishop was a sergeant, not a police inspector when he retired from the city force.

Back from a three-month tour in Great Britain, where he went at his own expense, Mr. Bishop offered suggestions for economy and efficiency of civil defense operation in the first of his statements Saturday. Among other things, he wanted to see abolition of "the present civil defense executive body at the Parliament Buildings." He wanted uniformed, volunteer police and fire fighting units. His suggestions are based on his studies in Britain.

Mr. Bishop was A.R.P. controller in Victoria during the Second World War.

Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith, Major-General C. R. Stein, provincial co-ordinator of civil defense, his deputy, Brigadier G. A. McCarter, all refused to comment on Mr. Bishop's report.

Stung by Mr. Hatcher's comment that he had never heard of him, Mr. Bishop sketched his background briefly. He was a descendant of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, half-brother of Sir Walter Raleigh, he said. He was born in England in 1884, attended Richmond House School, Dulwich, and was apprenticed to sea.

He came to Victoria 45 years ago, served as a fireman and policeman, and went overseas with the Royal Engineers in the First World War.

In 1940 he was named controller of civil defense in Victoria, the air raid precautions organization, with a corps of 3,000 trained men and a women's auxiliary.

During the emergency period, he said, he obtained a fireboat for Victoria (which was never manned) and three ambulances, which are still in use.

Aaron Parfitt, Veteran City Builder, Dies

Aaron Parfitt, one of the founders of the city's second oldest contracting firm, Parfitt Construction Co., Ltd., died Sunday at Royal Jubilee Hospital. He was 84.

Born in England, he came to Canada in his early twenties with his brothers Jim and Fred. He and Jim started the contracting firm 50 years ago. They were subsequently joined in the construction business by brothers Fred, Mark and Albert.

Only Mark and Albert are alive today and the business is operated by Aaron's son, Ray, and Mark's son, Harold.

Mr. Parfitt had enjoyed good health until three months ago.

He was a charter member of the Metropolitan United Church and a member of Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1, 9.F. & A.M.

He is survived by his wife, one son, one daughter, four grandchildren, one great-grandchild, three sisters and two brothers.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2.30 in Metropolitan Church. Rev. A. E. Whitehouse will officiate. Interment will be at Colwood Cemetery.

New Canada Trade Emmissaries Here

Eight new federal assistant trade commissioners, who will leave Canada later this year for appointments in other countries, are in Victoria today on a familiarization tour.

They are on a three-month tour which will carry them into every province, and give them the opportunity to become familiar with all phases of Canadian industry.

On Tuesday they will visit the Harmac pulp mill near Nanaimo and the Pacific Biological Station, Departure Bay.

Protests

Dangling petition, held by John L. Brown, 1101 Burnside Road West, contains names of 164 persons objecting to proposed route of new Island Highway outlet from Victoria. Mr. Brown, who is handling the petition, claimed today "thousands more" would sign if asked. "The 164 names are just a representative group," he said.

CRITICS MUSTER

New Petition Opposed to Highway Plan

Another petition, protesting specifically the second section of the new Island Highway outlet from Victoria, will be circulated in the Langford and Colwood areas, J. S. Cunningham, Jones Road, said today.

The new petition will be separate from the one being handled by John L. Brown, 1101 Burnside Road, which has 164 names and "could get thousands more."

Mr. Cunningham said the petition, along with Mr. Brown's, will be presented to the new Social Credit public works minister.

Because of the general dissatisfaction over the proposed route, Mr. Cunningham said he anticipated no difficulty in getting hundreds of signatures for the petition.

He is opposed to the proposed route which entails construction of a new bridge behind the Six-Mile House, by-passing of Colwood Corners by construction of a new highway section through Wale Road and considerable use of the existing highway.

Mr. Cunningham claimed the second section should proceed in a direct line from the north side of the railway track near Thetis Lake Road to Langford.

ORIGINAL PLAN

"That's the way the government planned the highway at first. I don't know why they changed it," he said.

He added that the second section should keep on the north side of the track, cross Thetis Lake Park, proceed through a draw on the north side of Mill Mountain and then go straight throughthe Florence Lake area, joining the existing highway at the Chicken Coop restaurant.

"It would cut two miles off the proposed route," he said.

He termed "rubbish" the public works department's contention that the Florence Lake area is too marshy to build a road.

CAN BE DRAINED

"Surely, it can be drained into the lake," he said.

Meanwhile, Mr. Brown, whose petition is awaiting presentation to a new government, has claimed that the government's proposed route has nine double crossings and one single crossing.

He has written to the Board of Transport Commissioners protesting the route.

Mr. Brown said there are two alternative routes which would eliminate all railway crossings and pass through rural and undeveloped areas.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

A 13-year-old city boy entered his sixth day of semi-consciousness today as the result of being struck Wednesday by a large rock while on a hike from a Sooke boy scout camp.

Only 48 of the 69 persons holding cards entitling them to supplies from free food stall at the Victoria public market turned up on Saturday.

Mrs. Barbara Green, originator and manager of the stall, is concerned. "Perhaps they're at camp," she said. "Some are, I know. But they wanted their food anyway."

Persons needing new qualification cards must contact government agencies, she added.

Two motorists were fined $25 each in police court today for failing to have drivers' licenses.

Lambert J. Jesso, H.M.C.S. Ontario, and Anthony H. Browning, 244 Simcoe, pleaded guilty to the charge.

B.C. PROVIDES NEW PRESIDENT FOR DOMINIO' DRAMA FESTIVAL

The Dominion Drama Festival finals are to be held in Victoria next May, and in keeping with a new policy, the president of the Dominion Drama Festival Association will be a British Columbia man.

Donald Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, has accepted the office, succeeding D. Park Jamieson of Sarnia, Ont. Mr. Cromie is a former president of the Vancouver Little Theatre Association.

He becomes the third president of the festival since its formation by the Earl of Bessborough in 1932.

Courtenay Man Heads Island's Carpenters

George Cooper of Courtenay was elected president of the Vancouver Island Council of Carpenters at the annual meeting Saturday at Campbell River.

He succeeds E. T. Staley of Victoria, who had held the presidency for two years.

Ernest Oliver, Victoria, was elected vice-president; James Trebett, Port Alberni, secretary-treasurer; Art Clark, Nanaimo, warden; and Art Lovett, Duncan, Ian Matheson, Powell River, and Ayton Davidson, Campbell River, directors.

The meeting was attended by delegates of the eight locals of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) which operate on the island.

Question of apprenticeship training was the principal matter of discussion. It was pointed out that only 165 youths are apprenticed to be carpenters in the whole of the province at the present time.

The council felt steps should be taken to encourage more young men into the trade through the apprenticeship means and that a proper training syllabus should be established.

Objection was raised to certain contractors putting their apprentices on simple shiplap work and letting them do nothing else during their four years of learning. The council also felt there was need for more thorough examinations.

Rates of pay for apprentices were discussed. The council went on record as being in favor of an increase to those learning the trade. It was pointed out a first-year carpenter's apprentice only earned between $3 and $4 a day while another boy would earn between $10 and $12 a day working as a laborer.

Thrills, Spills In Navy Regatta

There was no need to whistle up a wind for the R.C.N. Sailing Association Regatta in Esquimalt harbor Saturday and Sunday.

The wind came by the bagful, reaching gusts estimated at 50 miles an hour inside the harbor Sunday.

For Victoria sailing enthusiasts, it was the most exciting week-end in many years. And for some of them, the most expensive.

The 10-boat snipe fleet racing from Cadboro Bay to Esquimalt Saturday afternoon was completely knocked out by the heavy winds. Five of the little ships turned over, one boat was dismasted, and the others beached.

None of the sailing enthusiasts suffered more than a ducking, but they face a great deal of work and some expense before their damaged craft will sail again.

One of the Lightning class lost her rudder Saturday (lost rudders were almost commonplace) and her skipper worked all Saturday night to build a new one, ready for Sunday's racing.

Several of Sunday's scheduled races were scratched for lack of contenders, and no race had a full entry list as the heavy winds continued.

As one yachtsman put it: "We learned more about sailing this week-end than you'll get from a textbook."

Quadra Street Site of Victoria's $145,000 Curling Rink

A friendly rivalry between Victoria and Duncan exists as to which municipality will have a curling club first. Duncan appears to have the edge so far in a drive for funds for the building. Curlers there have already raised one-half of the $50,000 needed for the project and construction may start there anytime. Victoria curlers are still fighting hard to raise $105,000 to build their club which will house eight sheets of ice. The picture shows club site on Quadra, near corner of Pembroke, with Memorial Arena in background. The building will cover an area 121 feet by 182 feet.

Five-for-One Sounds Mighty Good to Me!

By PENNY SAVER

I'm always attracted when I see something that says you're getting two-for-one or in this case, five-for-one.

You can understand my interest then, when I was shown a set of screwdrivers with one handle and five interchangeable bitts.

For goodness sakes, though, don't ask me what size the bitts are or what job they will do. I just found it. Far be it from me to know all the rest.

I do know though that the set was selling for $2.95.

Summertime and its wonderful week-end visits to the shore and country usually bring up the problem of letting your hostess know you have appreciated your escape from city sidewalks.

Always a delightful gift is a fragrant cologne. There's hardly a woman who won't appreciate this personal gesture.

Instead of typing your hostess as the "sporty" or "floral" type, why not send her a variety of fragrances? One leading fragrance house has recently introduced an economically-priced cologne trio. The package contains three completely different types of scents—designed to meet varying moods.

One is a flowery fresh bouquet of tuberose, violet and jasmine, all blended into a fresh greenness that personifies nature. The second is an oriental spice fragrance that features a blend of musky rosewood. And then, to complete the trip, there is a deep invigorating woody fragrance that will refresh on even the most humid days.

How flattered your hostess will be when she receives this fragrant wardrobe. And in case you become infatuated with one of the colognes yourself, you'll be happy to know it can be purchased separately.

Here's another suggestion if you are wondering about a gift for your hostess.

It is inexpensive and would be welcomed as your token of appreciation.

For $1.50 you can buy hand-embroidered Chinese slippers. These slippers, or "mules" as they call them, are colorfully designed and for added comfort, have cushion soles.

Keep them in mind, too, if you want something to slip in your suitcase that will not take up any room at all.

Postpone Wedding Bells Until You're Very Sure

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When a bride-to-be has any doubts in her mind about her marriage, the best course of action is to stop and think before going ahead with the plans. That is the advice this bride-to-be should follow if she wants to avoid trouble for herself in the future:

Hurlock

(Q.) "I am 22 and am planning to be married in a few months. I love the man I am engaged to. He's wonderful to me and so is his family. Now I have just got word from the man I once was in love with for many years, asking me if I would change my mind and go back to him. Right now, I feel sure of myself but I wouldn't want to go through with something as important as marriage and then later be sorry for it. Please give me some advice."

(A.) By all means, hold up your plans for your wedding until you are absolutely sure that you are doing the right thing by marrying your fiance. Nothing would be more unfair than to go ahead with your plans with the doubt you now have in your mind.

Perhaps you have a romantic memory of the other man which is making you wonder if you still love him now. If you really loved him, why did you stop seeing him and why did you go with another man enough to become engaged? If he loved you, he would not have put himself out of your life long enough to enable you to become engaged to someone else.

Ask this man to see you. Does he know you are engaged and planning to marry someone else? If not, tell him before he comes so he won't get a shock on your first meeting. If he already knows about your plans, he is a poor sport to try to enter your life again after dropping you.

As for the man you are engaged to, I suggest that you do not mention this matter to him now. You are unsure of your feelings, so why upset him unnecessarily? After seeing and talking to the other man, if you decide that you still love him and would rather marry him than your fiance, then will be time to break the news to your fiance. As the matter now stands, it may be merely a romantic memory and nothing else.

The new silk coats, tiny as to waist, sloping as to shoulder and billowing as to skirt, being talked about this season, call for high-heeled open shoes, very open shell pumps, stripping sandals that are a minimum of shoe.

One of the best-tasting pies we know that can be made in the least amount of time is this one. Bake a graham cracker crumb shell, cool and fill with canned peach slices and toasted shredded coconut folded into whipped cream.

Exchange Nuptial Vows In Metropolitan United

A double ring ceremony united Yvonne Shirley, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Irwin, Oscar Street, and Fraser Hazen Stamford, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Stamford, Beach Drive, Saturday evening at Metropolitan United Church. Rev. D. B. Carr heard nuptial vows and Edgar Holloway presided at the organ. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Gwen Sorenson sang "Because." White gladioli and roses decorated the church.

The bride was lovely in the traditional white gown styled with lace bodice with nylon yoke and standup collar of lace accented with seed pearls, long pointed sleeves of lace and accordion-pleated skirt of nylon marquisette with lace peplum tapering to a slight train. Her filmy chapel veil with lace edge, was caught to a tiara of pearls. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace and earrings, the gift of the groom and her bouquet was of red roses and swainsona. Mr. Irwin gave his daughter in marriage.

Attendants provided pleasing color contrasts: Mrs. C. M. Buchanan chose mauve satin with marquisette overskirt and matching satin jacket; her bandeau of pleated nylon and mitts matched her gown and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow roses and mauve gladioli. Bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Miss Darlene Irwin in peach, and Miss Constance Van Wort in turquoise. Their gowns were similarly styled in nylon over taffeta with puff sleeves and Peter Pan collars; their bandeaux and mitts were of matching nylon, and they carried Colonial bouquets of cream roses and peach gladioli. Little Sandra Stuckey, flower girl, wore a long white taffeta dress trimmed with lace and embroidered with pink and blue flowers on the tiny peplum, sash and at the sweetheart neckline, also repeated on the underbrim of her taffeta poke bonnet. She carried a little basket of sweet heart roses. Mr. C. M. Buchanan attended the bridegroom, and Mr. William Cartwright and Mr. Dennis Long ushered.

Parents of the young couple received with them at the reception held at Lougheed's Banquet Club. The three-tiered cake topped with bride and groom and surrounded by folds of tulle sprinkled with rosebuds, centred the table which was decorated with pale pink roses. The toast was given by Mr. Walter Du Russel.

The honeymoon will be spent in Regina, the couple returning here to make their home. Going away the bride wore a tailored suit with white shortie coat and accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here's How to Feel Like A Monkey on a Pogo Stick

A love of gadgets, curiosity, and a sense of mimicry and fun seem to be universal human characteristis. If we watch a gang of monkeys, and are at all imaginative, they remind us of us. Have you noticed how they love to look into a mirror, how they tease and badger one another, or how they settle down to investigate some crazy mechanism.

Remember the pogo stick craze? I never saw a monkey on one but I am sorry I didn't, and a lot of people looked like monkeys when they tried that gadget out. There is method to this madness I am developing.

Most people (who wouldn't?) would rather take a couple of pills a day and remain youthful than trouble with nutrition. Most women would rather lie on a satin cushion in some salon and be massaged than sweat it out by working their muscles.

However, most women cannot afford the satin cushion, and besides, they would profit by the less glamorous approach to health and beauty.

Lack of exercise and adequate circulation lie back of much stiffness and fatigue. While middle-aged persons should not indulge in strenuous exercise unless they are accustomed to it, yet they should make some joint-oiling and tone-building and circulation and glandular-stimulating motions.

I always get a big kick out of giving deep-knee bend exercises in my classes. The joints that pop sound like firecrackers when the class first gets underway. Later on there is not a sound from the joints, and the fireworks come only from feeling peppier.

If you want to feel like a monkey on a pogo stick, and at the same time firm the thighs, oil up the knee joints and develop grace and balance, try this one:

Bend the knees all the way down. Place the hands on the knees. Bounce up and down. Keep your back straight. If this is too advanced for you, place your hand on a nearby chair to help with balance.

Loyal Subjects Fear Their Queen Too Heavily Burdened With Duties

LONDON, July 21 (BUP)—Britain's second Queen Elizabeth is criticized by her subjects for only one thing.

They're afraid she's working too hard.

"She's young, and she and Philip should go with the younger generation more," Mrs. Anthony Mullen, a housewife from Cheshire said as she stood in front of Buckingham Palace to watch the changing of the guard. "We'd like it if they'd brighten up the place a bit."

In the House of Commons the members of Parliament are worried about the heavy burdens Queen Elizabeth assumed so uncomplainingly.

Besides cutting down the number of public appearances required of the monarch, the M.P.'s have even brought up the possibility of moving the royal family from "the white elephant"—Buckingham Palace—which is antiquated and highly inconvenient. Such a move, however, is unlikely.

This fatherly concern shown the young Queen is just one example of the devotion of the subjects.

"She has the same devotion to duty her father had," explained one British businessman. "She has everything she needs to make her a beloved ruler."

To the women she represents the ideal wife, with a handsome husband and two good-looking children. And besides all this, the people like the idea of having a woman on the throne, especially when her name is Elizabeth.

Both men and women are frank to admit the appeal of a pretty, young Queen.

"I think people will rally 'round more for a Queen than a King," said Mary Adair, a young secretary from Belfast, Northern Ireland. "A Queen needs more support. And anyway, England has always been prosperous under a Queen."

The belief that a Queen's reign is a good omen for Britain is held stubbornly, although the present Queen's subjects admit that Elizabeth II's rule has started in a grave period of economic crisis at home and cold war abroad.

Under the first Elizabeth, Sir Francis Drake smashed the Spanish Armada and England's explorers moved her to greatness. Under Victoria, the British Empire reached its summit.

"It is just an idea that we have, and it's nice hanging onto it," admitted A. C. Brett, Mayor of Southport. "Even though we're all well aware that the royal functions today are quite different than they were in the days of the other Elizabeth or of Victoria."

The name of Philip enters any discussion of Elizabeth, and the handsome Duke of Edinburgh is tremendously popular with the average Britisher.

"He's a good one, that Philip. He won't stand for any nonsense," Benjamin Tears, a taxi driver, said admiringly. "He won't go along with all of these conventions. He'll see that he and the Queen get to do some of the things they want to do.

"And that's the way we want it, too—you can bet."

World Traveller and Keen Amateur Artist Inspired By Scenes Here

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Two people whose travels have covered the earth in the last few years are Dr. and Mrs. Roy G. Bose of Pacific Palisades, Calif. Dr. Bose is on the faculty at the Summer School of Education here.

From Sept., 1949, to Sept., 1950, he worked in the Phillipines, under a Fulbright grant in an advisory capacity to the Phillipine Department of Education.

Mrs. Bose accompanied him and on the return trip they visited a number of points in the Near and Far East and Europe. But Mrs. Bose is not an enthusiastic traveller. In fact she says: "My husband is the one who loves it. I just go along!"

Nevertheless, Mrs. Bose takes a lively and thoughtful interest in all she sees, enjoys many of the experiences involved in visiting strange countries and makes use of them in her own way. She is a keen amateur artist and inevitably finds inspiration for her brush in the kaleidoscopic change of scene she undergoes.

She lectures on her travels, too. "Women's clubs, church and small groups of that sort," she says diffidently.

Mrs. Bose is a member of Women Painters of the West—she paints in oils and water colors, prefers landscape and still life.

"I love the boat scenes and harbors around Victoria," she tells you. At the moment she is particularly fascinated by the tall old house on Harling Point, by the Chinese Cemetery. She has an unfinished, but very promising oil sketch of it.

She tells you that in the Phillipines, big crowds gather wherever you settle to sketch. "I don't mind one or two, but a lot of people do bother me," she admits.

ART LECTURES

"Among the Fillipinos there are many gifted artists," says Mrs. Bose. Her lectures are principally on the subject of art in the Philippines, and while there she went to a number of fine exhibits. In Victoria she has visited the Arts Centre gallery and thinks the building excellent for its purpose.

"I was interested in the non-jury show; it was extremely well set up," she comments. She is a warm admirer of the Emily Carr paintings which she saw at the Vancouver Art Gallery. Both she and Dr. Bose hope to see something of the crafts done on this Island before leaving here.

As to what she has seen in other parts of the world, Mrs. Bose particularly loved Hong Kong, where "the colorful Orient and the orderly British have combined to create one of the earth's most delightful cities."

She loved England, too, which she admits candidly she approached with some slight prejudice. "But it all melted away under the kindness, sincerity and friendliness of the English people toward strangers," she says.

MR. AND MRS. ROY G. BOSE

Dr. and Mrs. Bose have an only son and a small granddaughter. While she talked she was busy smocking a bright gingham dress. Which led to believe that traveled, artistic and thoughtful, Mrs. Bose is still essentially a home-maker. And yes, she has a recipe on the tip of her tongue, too. It is nothing "exotically spiced from the south seas or the east." In fact, it sounds like a good American dish. It's simple and seasonal too.

"Just add blueberries to a rich pancake batter," she says. "We tried it last night and it's wonderful."

It is not the first trip to this city of the globe-trotting pair. Dr. Bose lectured at the Summer School on a previous occasion. But with all their traveling, they love coming to Victoria and always look forward to a return visit. Why?

"Because it's different; because it has a quality all its own," they tell you. And Mrs. Bose especially likes it because the restlessness, which is to her the disturbing factor in traveling, so quickly vanishes in Victoria.

St. John's Anglican Church Scene Of Recent Double Ring Service

St. John's Anglican Church was setting for an attractive summer wedding Saturday, when Edith Mary French, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. French, Cordova Bay, exchanged marriage vows with Bruce Grainger, son of Mrs. T. H. Grainger, Nanaimo Street, and late Mr. Grainger. For the double-ring ceremony the young couple knelt on the same cushion used by the bride's parents.

Rev. W. Valentine of Caulfield, B.C., officiated.

Standard baskets of summer flowers stood at the front of the church, while guest pews were marked with evergreen boughs. The wedding music was provided by Miss T. Richardson, organist, and Miss J. Northcott, R.N., of Vernon, who sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Eric Blackburn, was lovely in a traditional gown of white satin, styled with full skirt, sweetheart neckline, lily-point sleeves, and a bodice set with tiny rows of lace. Her mother's three-quarter length veil, caught to an orange blossom wreath, and a triple strand of pearls completed the picture. Her bouquet was of red roses and white sweet peas.

Maid of honor, Miss Mildred French, was gowned in turquoise green taffeta, slightly off-shoulder, with matching chapel-length veil and mitts. She carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli. Miss Irene French and Miss Marion Munro, R.N., bridesmaids, chose similar dresses of nylon net trimmed with satin, in pale blue and peach respectively. Their bouquets were of carnations and sweet peas.

Miss Connie Hogarth, niece of the groom, wore a short mauve dress and carried a basket of flowers, while Mr. Stuart Hogarth, nephew of the groom, served as ring bearer.

Best man was Mr. Roy Grainger. Ushering were Mr. Ken Salmond, Mr. Charles Green, Mr. Donald Davidson and Eric Kremer.

At the reception, which took place at St. David's Hall, Cordova Bay, eight graduate nurses from the Royal Jubilee Hospital, classmates of the bride, acted as serviteurs. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with Talisman roses and was set on a hand-crocheted cloth. Dr. R. J. Wride proposed the toast to the bride.

Leaving for a motor trip through the northern states, Mrs. Grainger donned a tailored pale blue suit, navy blue and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The couple will reside in Macleod, Alberta.

Summer Floral Setting For Ceremony Saturday

Wedding vows of a couple well known in Victoria's younger set were solemnized Saturday afternoon in a ceremony at Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Principals were Lois Bernadette Lawless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lawless, 1059 Deal Street, and Robert Charles Shandley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Shandley, 389 Ker Avenue.

Father M. McNamara officiated before an altar banked with pastel-toned flowers in large baskets. The floral pattern was repeated at the pews with ribbon and flowers.

In a gown of nylon net over satin, the bride walked up the aisle on the arm of her father, to strains of traditional wedding music, played by organist Miss M. McKay. The gown featured a trim-fitting lace jacket with small, pointed collar and three-quarter-length sleeves. The fullness of her bouffant skirt was enhanced with a cascade drape of lace and her embroidered fingertip veil was caught with a pearl coronet headdress. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Velma Wilson, sister of the bride, wore a pale yellow nylon net gown and carried a shower bouquet of gold and mauve gladioli and sweet peas, which matched her floral headdress. Junior bridesmaids Misses Lucille and Connie Cownden were dressed alike in Swiss embroidered white organdy. Their floral headdresses were complemented with pastel-toned colonial bouquets. Vocalist Walter Cownden supplied the wedding music as the newlyweds signed the register.

Best man was Pete Barry, cousin of the groom, and ushers David and Brian Lawless. Mr. Charles, godfather of the bride, proposed the toast at a reception held in the church hall.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, and decorated with white candles and silver vases of pastel flowers.

For motoring through Washington and Idaho to Banff, Mrs. Shandley wore a pale grey wool suit, mauve hat trimmed with tiny pink roses, and mauve accessories. Her corsage was a mauve orchid. Upon their return the couple will live in Victoria.

Married In Church Chapel

A wedding of interest on this Island and in England was solemnized Saturday in St. John's Church chapel when Rev. R. J. Pierce, bishop of Athabaska, heard the nuptial vows of Sylvia Margaret Woods, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Woods, Empire Street, and Robert Leslie Young, Nanoose Bay, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Young, London, Eng.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of pink marquisette with pink and white accessories complemented with a corsage of white gardenias.

Sharon Woods, sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She chose a gown of turquoise nylon marquisette with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Ronald Hurst was best man.

At the reception at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. F. V. Richardson, Denison Road, the bride's table was centred with a wedding cake and decorated with white candles and pink and white summer blooms. Mr. Richardson proposed the toast.

For motoring up-Island on her honeymoon, Mrs. Young wore a dusty pink pyramid coat in complement to her going-away ensemble.

Noted American Nursing Educator A Week-End Visitor in Victoria

A woman distinguished in the nursing profession, Dr. Loretta Heidgerken of Washington, D.C., was a week-end visitor in Victoria.

Dr. Heidgerken is returning to the United States from Vancouver, where she has been directing a workshop in nursing education for the province, under the co-sponsorship of the University of British Columbia and the B.C. Registered Nurses' Association.

The capital of the United States is home for the educationist, who is associate professor of nursing education at the Catholic University of America in that city.

Dr. Heidgerken is the author of a book on the subject of nursing education, as well as numerous articles and monographs.

She is enthusiastic over her first trip to B.C., especially the profusion of flowers seen during her brief stay in Victoria. And she found time to buy "some lovely china pieces."

She describes the Vancouver workshop as "very good."

"There was excellent representation from all schools of nursing and all phases of the profession in B.C.," she states.

On leaving the city, Dr. Heidgerken is proceeding via San Francisco to Denver, Colorado, where she will again direct a workshop.

NEWS BRIEFS

Hearing of an appeal against granting a foreshore lease on Selkirk water to B.C. Forest Products Limited for log storage purposes has been set for Sept. 2.

Date was fixed by Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson in Supreme Court chambers last week.

Lease rights were recently given the lumber company by deputy lands minister George Melrose. Appeal against this authority is being launched by Col. J. P. Godreau, who owns auto court property near the site, and claims property values will be lowered if the water front becomes a booming ground.

Emergency Air Trip Fails to Save Boy

EDMONTON, July 21 (CP).—An emergency flight to Edmonton for an operation failed to save the life of a two-year-old Calgary boy injured Saturday when he fell 15 feet from a grandstand at a Calgary ball park.

The boy, Denny McFarlane, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. McFarlane of Calgary, died en route to hospital from the Edmonton airfield. The emergency flight was ordered by a Calgary doctor after examination showed the fall resulted in severe head injuries.

Bakery Head Dead

CALGARY, July 21 (CP).—Reuben Eldon Ward, 67, president of Canadian Bakeries Ltd., and a director in several other business enterprises, died here Saturday.

Mr. Ward was born in Sackville, N.B., and received his education there. He was on the staff of the Royal Bank of Canada from 1902 to 1908.

In addition to holding the presidency of Canadian Bakeries he was a director of Okalta Oils, Alberta Pacific Grain Co., Home Oil Co., Anglo-Canadian Oil Co., and the Crown Trust Co.

WINNIPEG, July 21 (CP).—Passenger trains from the west on Canadian National Railways lines were delayed six hours Sunday night by the derailment of a freight train between Wainright and Biggar, Sask.

The "Grand Banks Special," taking former Maritimers back to the Atlantic Coast to visit friends and relatives, was among three trans-continental trains held up by the derailment.

Search Held Up

EDMONTON, Alta., July 11 (BUP).—The R.C.A.F. waited for a break in the weather today to resume search for a Mitchell bomber missing in the Yukon for three weeks and carrying four men.

Hopes of finding the downed bomber and its crew faded and rainstorms and low clouds made flying hazardous in the wild Yukon territory.

Came With the Wind

Patrick J. Ellam, 32, of London, England, busies himself on the deck of his 19-foot sailboat in Miami, Fla., after completing a voyage from Britain. Ellam claims his is the smallest boat ever to make such a voyage. The boat has no auxiliary engine, relies entirely on the wind for power.

Ontario Jail Prisoners Dump And Throw Food Along Halls

CHATHAM, Ont., July 21—(BUP) — Authorities clamped a tight blackout on the Kent County jail today as they began an investigation into the third prison disorder in Ontario within eight months.

City police had to be called in Sunday to quell the latest disturbance here, but had the situation under control in less than 10 minutes.

No official report was issued. It was learned, however, that some 14 prisoners dumped their supper meal on the floor and threw it down the corridor complaining loudly about the food's quality.

There was no attempt at escape, attacking guards and destruction of the type that marked the week-end riot at Guelph reformatory by 500 inmates a month ago.

Jail Governor P. J. Daigneau said he was at home and had not even heard about the demonstration.

Kent County Sheriff Arthur Poulter said he had only a preliminary report on the "trouble," but refused to discuss it until Toronto officials had been informed. All police, including the city officers, said they were forbidden to talk about the matter.

The first prison disorder in Ontario this year occurred at the northern industrial farm at Burwash.

HUSKIES IN FINAL

HELSINKI, July 21 (AP)—The University of Washington's four with coxswain was the first crew to reach a final in the Olympic rowing competition. In the semi-final of their event the American Huskies defeated crews from France, Norway and Argentina.

ISLAND DIGEST

NANAIMO, July 21—The Harmac pulp mill here will close down Tuesday for one or two weeks.

Officials of the plant maintain, however, that the closure has nothing to do with the lumber strike.

Reasons given are that it is vacation time among converting mills in the United States and the fact that the management desires to make certain changes in the mechanical operation here.

PARKSVILLE, July 21—Miss Audrey Stevens of French Creek was awarded the grand aggregate prize at the Silver Spur Horse Show and Gymkhana held at Eaglecrest Saturday.

Miss Stevens garnered 10 points during the riding and jumping competitions, more than any of the other 50 contestants.

COMOX, July 21 (CP)—An entire stage production, lock, stock and actors, was airlifted here Sunday.

In what is believed to be the first move of its kind in Canada since the end of the Second World War, the production "Jane Steps Out" was transferred from Vancouver to the R.C.A.F. air station here to entertain the 400 servicemen and their friends.

The play, with a 20-member cast, was produced by Vancouver's Totem Theatre. It was shown in Vancouver recently.

NANAIMO, July 21—Kenneth J. Botterill, Parksville, was sentenced to three months definite and six months indefinite in Newhaven when he came up in police court here for violation of probation rules.

Botterill, who was given a suspended sentence and placed on good behavior for theft of gasoline from a logging company, did not live up to all the terms of his probation.

NANAIMO, July 21—If the grass in city parks goes brown, citizens will only have a thief to blame.

Nanaimo parks board chairman Jack McGregor reports that within recent weeks six or eight sprinklers have been stolen from parks.

The thefts have occurred at Dallas Square, Georgia Park and Elks' Park.

8,000-Lb. Bell Crashes In Notre Dame Church

MONTREAL, July 21 (BUP)—An 8,000-pound bell fell from the belfry in historic Notre Dame Church Sunday and caretaker Arsidas Durocher said today that only a strong wooden beam prevented it from crashing to the floor and causing death or injury to morning worshippers.

No one was hurt as the beam stopped the plunge of the monstrous carillon only five feet from the belfry. The crash, however, broke a sprinkler system, flooded part of the church basement and disrupted a church parade marking Belgian independence day.

The church is a copy of the famous Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris and the bell was second in size only to the 12-ton bell in the western belry. It tumbled at 10.45 a.m., just 15 minutes before hundreds would have been moving up the church stairs for the 11 a.m. high mass. The bell would have fallen on two flights of steps leading to the balcony and choir benches.

The bell had been torn loose when an axle snapped. It smashed a heavy wooden beam, tore through the floor directly under it and came to rest at an angle against a half-bent beam. The sprinkler system was punctured in its downward flight.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

When the national tournament begins in Cincinnati a week from today, Peter Leventritt and Dick Kahn will try to repeat their triumph of last year. They entered the final session of the Master's Pairs in about 30th place, and came in with a 70 per cent game to win the championship.

No championship can ever be won without first-class defensive play, and this was no exception to the rule, as may be seen in the hand shown today.

Kahn opened the 10 of clubs from the West hand, dummy played the jack, and Leventritt covered with the king. Declarer won with the ace of clubs and entered dummy with the jack of spades in order to return a heart.

Leventritt played his low heart, hoping that South would misguess a possible finesse. As it happened, however, declarer had no finesse and won the trick with the queen of hearts. He continued hearts, and East won with the king. East's club return was taken by the queen and another heart knocked out East's ace.

At this point Pete Leventritt had to make a key decision. If he tamely returned another club, the defenders could take two clubs, two diamonds, and two hearts. Declarer would therefore make his contract of one no-trump.

Leventritt knew the spade situation, since his partner had discarded two low spades on the second and third rounds of hearts. He therefore knew all about declarer's high cards except for the holding in diamonds.

It seemed very unlikely that South would have as much as the ace of diamonds, so Leventritt decided to push the jack of diamonds through at this point.

This play was the crusher. No matter what South did he was bound to lose four diamond tricks in addition to two clubs and two hearts. The two-trick set gave East-West a very fine score.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By RON BAIRD

Victoria and district will get nation-wide publicity tonight at 6.15 on the "Happy Motoring" show, an imaginary tour of Canada featuring singers Terry Dale and Wally Coster from Toronto.

A summer show, it will be heard here over CJVI or CJOR.

"Happy Motoring" describes different cities and towns across Canada and does it with a musical background.

On Wednesday night C.B.C. listeners will hear a description of Nanaimo and district.

Film critic Clyde Gilmour will begin a nine-week series called "Music Profiles" on CBU Thursday nights at 10.15, in which he will talk about nine personalities from the world of musical entertainment.

Gilmore has chosen the following for his series: Lena Horne, Oscar Levant, Lawrence Tibbett, Dorothy Shay, Earl "Fatha" Hines, Rise Stevens, Jimmy Durante, Arthur Rubenstein and Jerry Colonna.

"Music Profiles," says Gilmour, "will consist of anecdotes and personal impressions, plus brief excerpts from recordings. . . . Not all the comments will necessarily be complimentary in tone, as I am going to strive for objectivity . . ."

The recordings he will use are part of his collection of nearly 15,000 records.

* * *

TONIGHT . . . Arthur Godfrey at 8 on KIRO . . . the "Railroad Hour" and the "Telephone Hour" from 8.30 to 9.30 on KOMO . . . and the Democratic Convention spotted throughout the evening on most U.S. stations.

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

'DIVING DETERIORATED' SAYS U.S. OLYMPIC COACH

HELSINKI, July 21 (AP)—Dick Papenguth, who coaches America's women swimmers and divers in the 1952 Olympics, thinks diving generally has deteriorated.

"You don't see divers doing the basic dives any more, such as the plain back dive or the swan dive," Papenguth said today.

"Diving has largely become a matter of tumbling and the basic dives are neglected in a welter of 'scrambled egg' dives."

In contrast to earlier diving, Papenguth continued, tower and springboard performers do such acrobatic dives as the double twisting one and a half, the half gainor, half twist, the cutaway two and a half and a one and a half back twisting one and a half.

"These dives are difficult to do, certainly," Papenguth said, "but we have steadily been getting away from the standard and basic dives. The simple back dive is one of these and is extremely difficult to perform correctly. And it's a beautiful dive if done properly."

Alfred Tyrrell's Funeral Private

Private funeral services were held today for Alfred Tyrrell, 78, of 319 Masters Road.

He was a well-known pioneer in the hairdressing business here.

Besides his widow, Florence, he leaves four sons, Colin and Howard in Victoria; Frank in Vancouver and Norman in Laguna Beach, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Hilda Corbett and Mrs. Marion Doyle, both of Victoria.

The funeral was from McCall's chapel, followed by cremation.

Finally Finds Friend

FARNWORTH, Lancs., Eng., July 21 (CP).—When Joseph Wood emigrated to Toronto in 1905 he expected to see a friend named Bob Farrow, who had gone to Canada a few years earlier. But though Wood visited Toronto every year from his United States home he could never find Farrow. This year, at 67, Wood came back to Farnworth on holiday, and found Farrow in a public house—also on holiday.

DUNCAN, July 21—A change in municipal boundaries may not be far off.

There is talk the town of Chemainus may withdraw from the municipality of North Cowichan and become a municipality of its own along with Westholme and Crofton.

At the same time, Saltair, with a population of about 1,000, is considering the possibility of entering the North Cowichan Municipality. If, however, a Chemainus municipality is formed, it would appear more likely Saltair would join that area.

PORT CREDIT, Ont., July 21 (BUP).—Police said today they were hunting for a "hit-and-run row-boat."

They said it crashed into a pier Sunday night then wobbled crazily off into the dark harbor carrying five intoxicated men.

British Workers Said Too Sports Interested

LONDON, July 21 (CP).—John Yarwood, northern secretary of the General and Municipal Workers' Union, says the workers of Britain spend too much money and time on sport. In a report, he says a fraction of the mass interest lavished on football and the like could quickly extricate Britain from her troubles.

TV only for the young? Don't make famed 73-year-old Ethel Barrymore bristle. Starring in her own TV show the actress maintained: "TV just for young people? We'll see about that. TV is for people with talent. It magnifies flaws. You have to convey things quickly—like a good act in vaudeville."

T.C.P. is available at all drug stores, with full directions for its many uses.

He Won't Get Lost, Stolen or Stray in a Hurry

This little gadget makes mother's day easier. Mrs. R. W. Doherty, 1888 Quamichan, has hit on a method of escaping worry wrinkles and keeping son Greg, two, out of most methods of mischief-making. A stout wire, rigged outside the house, with a traveler-line attached and a spring hook at the end of it, connect with a small harness . . . and a small boy. The little chap can play happily, with plenty of freedom. Above, Mrs. Doherty smiles approval. Below, Greg gets hooked on. "This should happen to a dog," he may be thinking.

Canadian Army Announces Change in Korea Staff

OTTAWA, July 21 (BUP)—A switch in senior Canadian army staff appointments in Korea and Edmonton was announced today by army headquarters.

Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith, 35, now general staff officer, grade one, with the Commonwealth Division in Korea, will return to Canada early in the fall, and will be appointed to Western Command headquarters at Edmonton.

Lt.-Col. E. A. C. Amy, 34, now at Edmonton, will replace him in Korea.

The army said the change was expected to take place in August.

Wilson-Smith, a former commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, took his regiment to Korea last year. Originally from St. Catharines, Ont., he was educated at Kelvin Technical High School in Winnipeg and the University of Manitoba.

Amy, who succeeds Wilson-Smith in Korea, is one of the youngest officers in the Canadian army to win the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross.

Steel Strike Enters 50th Day, No End Seen

PITTSBURGH, July 21 (AP)—Philip Murray summoned the 170-man wage policy committee of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) to Pittsburgh today to discuss the steel strike, now in its 50th day.

But there appeared to be little possibility that the committee would come up with anything to end the strike which has made 1,500,000 workers idle in the U.S.—including 600,000 steelworkers and 900,000 in allied and steel-dependent industries.

In fact, there were indications the committee might ask Murray to take a new position on a contract, canceling out any tentative agreements reached with industry in recent weeks.

Both parties are reported to agree on a wage package which is likely to total around 25 cents an hour, a cent less than the Wage Stabilization Board's recommendation.

And despite contradictory reports from Washington in recent weeks, industry seems confident it will get permission to raise steel prices about $5 a ton—once agreement is reached on a new contract.

If nothing comes from Murray's session with his wage policy committee today, the government may decide to go ahead with a plan to seize a small number of plants under the 1948 Selective Service Act.

NEW QUAKE FEARED AS 11 DEAD IN CALIFORNIA

Lucky Step Saved Her Life

Sharon Squire, three, escaped drowning in murky waters of Gorge Saturday night because her rescuer, Alfred Pedneault, 2839 Austin, happened to kick youngster's arm while searching for her in water. Sharon is recovering at St. Joseph's Hospital today under watchful eye of Nurse Peggy Woodhouse. Child's body was under surface of water when Pedneault jumped in after he was attracted by screams. Little girl fell from float on which she, her brother, Kenneth, five, and small friend were playing. Pedneault and other passers-by applied artificial respiration until arrival of Saanich Fire Department resuscitator crew under Lieut. Hector McNeill. Sharon was taken to hospital by firemen. It was 18 minutes before the little girl began breathing properly after she was pulled from the water. (Times Photo.)

$6,000,000 Cushion In Provincial Coffers

The provincial treasury has $6,104,422 in a special suspense account which can be used as a cushion by the provincial government if it decided to withdraw from the federal-provincial tax rental agreement.

Premier Byron Johnson made the announcement today in another financial report, the third he has made since his government was defeated. Recently, he announced a $3,000,000 surplus in the hospital insurance plan, and a $15,000,000 reduction in the province's net debt.

Under the previous tax rental agreement there was a "hold-back" $5,070,609 payment which was credited to the suspense account to act as a financial buffer.

This sum was taken into account during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1952, and in its place has been substituted the final payment of $5,844,573 under the old agreement.

The sum of $259,849, penalties on arrears of taxes, also has been added to the suspense account.

Closing Prices

Stocks drifted narrowly to the off side in slow turnover at Vancouver Exchange in the late session today and lists closed with prices mostly unchanged to lower.

Western oils penny stocks were fractional losers, base metals weakened and industrials were steady.

Del Rio closed at $4.80; Central Leduc $5.40; Britalta $6.60; Continental $2.25; Federated Pete $9.60; Western Uranium $4.30; Quatsino 48 and Estella $1.37.

Being Towed

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—The Norwegian freighter Black Gull, a smoldering ghost of a fire on the high seas, moved slowly under tow today toward New York and possible salvage.

B.C. Strikes Look Darker

6,000 Fishermen Idle as Operators' Offer Rejected; I.W.A.-Sloan Meet

British Columbia set itself today to withstand another week of continuing major strikes. And indications seem to be that the general situation has yet to get worse before it gets better.

Escapee Sought

City police were searching for a juvenile escapee from Essondale Mental Home at press-time today.

The youth—about 17—was seen twice in the city this afternoon. He is believed to be a former resident of the city.

Victorian Wins

VANCOUVER, July 21 (CP)—Ted Bailey, Victoria Gun Club skeet shooting ace, Sunday won the British Columbia championship all-gauge event held here at Elks' Gun Club.

In the 100-bird event, he tied for first 94 points with Rick Lamb, Frank Cooper and Willard Cooper of New Westminnster club. In the following shoot-offs, however, they dropped out and left Bailey with a perfect score of 100.

Baby Born in 'Quake

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., July 21 (AP)—At San Gabriel Valley Hospital a baby was born today right as the hardest of the earthquake shocks was hitting California.

Power went out at the hospital but an emergency system, powered by a gasoline motor, immediately was placed in operation.

The father, Donald T. McMullen, doubly shaken by the occurrences, reported his wife gave birth to a baby boy.

Sign Contracts

VANCOUVER, July 21 (CP)—Two young Vancouver ball players, Don Smith and Bill Frederick, today signed contracts with the St. Louis Browns, Scout Mack Rodney announced.

'Flash in Pan'

EDMONTON, July 21 (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, National C.C.F. leader, said today that the Social Credit Party's success in the British Columbia election was "just a flash in the pan."

Mr. Coldwell said in an interview that Social Credit "has nothing to offer any province or the Dominion other than Social Credit theories which no longer are propagated except at election time."

Dump Truckers Off

CALGARY, July 21 (CP)—About 1,000 dump truck operators all over Alberta came out on strike today bringing practically all road building in the province to a standstill.

Forest, mill and construction industries have been tied up for more than a month. Today it appeared likely the salmon fishing industry would be next in line to be hit.

Gill-net and seine fishing vessels already have been ordered to do no fishing until union executive officers decide the next move.

6,000 IDLE

The no-fish order went out Sunday night. It caused about 6,000 net fishermen to tie up their boats. The order was given after a week-end vote had been conducted by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union on a last-minute offer by cannery operators to pay half a cent a pound more for pink salmon.

Union fishermen and Indians belonging to the Native Brotherhood of B.C. participated in the ballot and voted to reject the cannery terms.

The fishermen have demanded a cent a pound more for sockeye salmon, half a cent a pound more for pinks and last year's prices for cohoe and chums.

The cannery operators had proposed price reductions for all varieties except Sockeye.

Union officials point out the present situation is a tie-up, rather than a strike. They said they would announce whether it would develop into a strike later today or Tuesday.

Victoria fishermen are not directly affected for the moment since most boats operating out of here are trollers and the tie-up concerns net vessels only.

Meantime, the main labor spotlight continues to focus on the closed doors behind which Chief Justice Gordon Sloan sits with representatives of the I.W.A. and coast lumber operators.

This is the 38th day of the lumber workers' strike and settlement in the near future appears to depend almost entirely on the success of the chief justice in his role of mediator.

Mediation sessions were being held today in Vancouver.

PICKETS ON HAND

At Nanaimo, I.W.A. pickets were again posted on the assembly wharf this morning but there was no trouble.

The I.W.A. had close to 100 members picketing the wharf last week to prevent loading of a ship even though an injunction had been issued restraining them from such activity.

There were no pickets at the wharf Sunday but today six were counted.

Sheriff W. B. McKenzie said he was watching the wharf but said he expected no incidents. Meanwhile, the Shipping Federation of Nanaimo has issued a statement charging the strikers with breaking an agreement with longshoremen and shipping companies.

The federation maintains agreement was reached in Vancouver May 29, that all lumber assigned prior to the strike and all lumber of adjacent shore storage area would be considered fair cargo.

Unions officials from Vancouver were expected in Nanaimo sometime today to hear the shipping federation's arguments and to render a decision.

The I.W.A. strike, which affects 32,000 men, is regarded as one of most concern. It is generally felt it must be settled before the construction industry can iron out its labor troubles.

Democrat Race Open for All

Convention Hears Stevenson Plead 'Put Program Above Personalities'

Compiled from C.P., U.P. Dispatches

CHICAGO, July 21—Democrats today plunged into their 31st national convention here to pick a presidential candidate with scarcely anyone prepared to make even a guess as to the ultimate choice.

While the party girded itself to hold on to its 20-year tenure of the White House, the convention in its opening day heard:

1. Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson resist efforts to draft him for the presidential nomination by telling them that the party's program is more important than its candidate;

2. Estes Kefauver, crime-busting Senator from Tennessee declare he was sure of the nomination and had his campaign and administration plans well in hand. The 38-year-old aspirant is leading the numerous candidates in the number of state delegations pledged to vote for him, but there are many observers who say he cannot win;

3. Seventeen avowed candidates claim a total of 725 pledges among the 1,230 full votes on the convention floor. A candidate needs 616 to win. There are at least 500 unpledged votes and it is reported President Truman could swing 400 of them;

4. Best guessing seems to be that 74-year-old Alben Barkley of Kentucky, vice-president and popular man with all groups, who wants to be president, has a good chance of winning the nomination;

5. Others prominently mentioned include Averell Harriman, believed to have Truman's backing; Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma;

6. Oddity of the convention to date was the activity about the convention hotel Sunday when a demonstration of placard carriers booming General Douglas MacArthur, who made the keynote address at the Republican convention;

6. The question of whether Truman would agree to run again in the event of a deadlocked convention was still being discussed. George Allen, a close friend of the President's, said he believes Truman would let the Democrats nominate him for another term if the party's convention should become a "real deadlock."

As the convention opened things got so hot that party leaders were reported to have hastily changed the opening session program to obtain a cooling-off period. They postponed until tonight or Tuesday a showdown on the basic issue which threatens to split the party wide open. The issue is called Civil Rights.

"Who leads us is less important than what leads us," Stevenson told the convention in formally welcoming the delegates in behalf of the State of Illinois. "A man doesn't save a century or a civilization, but a militant party wedded to a principle can."

Death Toll May Rise As Rubble Cleared Up

From A.P. Dispatches

A violent earthquake, striking before dawn in the sparsely-settled mountains north of Los Angeles, killed at least 11 persons today and left a mounting toll of damage and injuries.

Meanwhile a top-ranking seismologist at the California Institute of Technology said there is a chance of another quake within the next 36 hours of as great or greater intensity.

The quake was general throughout much of California. But it turned its worst fury on the little town of Tehachapi.

The death toll may go higher when the rubble of brick and cement is cleared away.

Doctors, Nurses Flown in

As the first reports of eyewitnesses filtered out of Tehachapi, they painted a picture of a shattered business district, brick-littered streets and a wrecked hotel.

Doctors and nurses were flown in when ambulances met slide-blocked roads.

Amateur radio operators heard by radio station KTRB in Modesto reported the earth rocked convulsively, debris tumbling into the main street in thundering crashes.

Children and their parents rushed into the streets, crouched, stunned by the giant shaking. A large water tank crashed, flooding the area.

Another amateur quoted Carl Turner of the Kern County sheriff's aero detail, who flew in Red Cross workers, as reporting two-thirds of the city's buildings collapsed, with one house caved in and a family probably trapped.

Tehachapi, with a population of about 3,000 is on U.S. 466 between Bakersfield and Mojave, a little mountain town 4,000 feet high, many of whose residents work at the big Monolith Portland Cement plant nearby.

It also is the site of the state women's prison, which was reported so hard hit that most of its cluster of two-storey buildings are unusable.

A call went out for tents in which to house the 327 inmates, including all of California's women convicted of felonies. The prisoners were reported panic-stricken but unhurt.

Sheriff's Capt. F. D. Jones said he understood most of the dead were in an old brick hotel.

The town's residential district was damaged, but no deaths were reported there.

Railroad Tunnels Caved in

Cave-ins were reported in at least two tunnels in the area, used jointly by the Sante Fe and Southern Pacific Railroads, and all travel was blocked.

The main-traveled route between here and Bakersfield, the Ridge Route U.S. 99, was blocked by a slide near Gorman.

A highway patrolman said "it seems like the top of a mountain slid off," burying the busy, four-lane freeway route under 25 feet of dirt at one point.

Elsewhere in the isolated Tehachapi Mountains, which separate coastal southern California from the San Joaquin Valley, there were growing reports of loss and injuries.

At least 10 persons were in hospital at Mojave, 20 miles east of Tehachapi.

The strongest quake in southern California in nearly a half century, the thinly-populated area in which it hit kept the death toll from being much higher.

Its force was felt, mostly in a rolling motion, from San Francisco on the north to the Mexican border on the south, and eastward into Nevada.

As dawn came, clouds of dust could be seen rising back in the mountains, indicating landslides deep in the canyons.

Bakersfield itself, a city of 35,000, was hard hit. A refinery was afire, the downtown business district was littered with rubble.

Plate-glass windows were splintered and an explosion blew out the walls of an automobile agency.

Dozens were treated for shock and minor cuts and bruises at Kern County General Hospital.

Seismologists at California Institute of Technology put the quake's centre on a branch of the famed San Andreas Fault, which cuts through the mountains near Gorman, and fixed its distance at 70 miles north of here.

Its strength in this century is topped only by the San Francisco quake in 1906.

But in terms of damage and loss of life, the Long Beach quake of 1933 was far worse.

Deaths Mark Tehran Violence As Qavam Resigns as Premier

TEHRAN, July 21 (AP)—Premier Ahmed Qavam resigned tonight after violent hours-long rioting in Tehran and other cities subsided. He gave up after two days, his attempt to form a government pledged to solving Iran's oil deadlock.

Before Qavam gave up, near-revolutionary violence flared, with Communists strengthening Nationalist mobs. Government forces, with gun shots, tear gas and bayonets fought to keep control.

At least three persons and perhaps more, were killed when government forces fired into a crowd of 2,000 trying to storm the parliament buildings.

"Death to Qavam," the mobs shouted wildly, venting their fury at the new premier's declaration that a settlement of Iran's long and crippling oil dispute with Britain would be a chief aim of his regime and that Nationalist violence would not stop him.

Today's demonstrators were supporters of the former premier, Nationalist leader Mohammed Mossadegh, but many members of the outlawed Communist Tudeh Party swelled the crowds.

The ultra-nationalist Pan-Iran Party, spearhead of a drive to force Mossadegh back into power, has threatened Qavam with assassination.

Witnesses to the firing in the parliament square said police and soldiers opened up with revolvers and automatic rifles as some demonstrators attempted to climb the gates and walls.

One reporter said at least 12 persons fell to the ground after the first volley of shots.

In the city's main square a crowd of 3,000 swarmed over an army tank and surged on toward other waiting soldiers.

The soldiers and demonstrators began embracing and kissing when an earlier false report spread that Quavan had resigned.

Police reported crowds in some sections of the city dragged corpses through the street to arouse other followers.

Anti-Mossadegh newspapers were reported under attack.

Only a few hours before the parliament incident, pro-Mossadegh deputies broadcast a radio appeal to their supporters to quit demonstrating and avoid clashes with the soldiers and police. Apparently they feared the Communists might take control of the demonstrations in order to create public panic.
